

Old Habits Reappearing

By The Associated Press

Americans are relaxing their efforts to save energy now that the visible signs of the Arab oil embargo have vanished.

A nationwide Associated Press survey found evidence of increased use of energy throughout the nation since the middle of March: more auto traffic and higher speeds, rising toll-road receipts, declining use of mass transit and greater use of electricity.

Asked about The AP survey's results, William E. Simon, former federal energy chief, said in New York Wednesday that the nation is headed for further energy trouble if the survey is accurate.

The treasury secretary-designate emphasized that "conservation has to be a way of life" and is the cornerstone of the government's energy policy. The end of the embargo did not bring an end to the energy crisis, he said.

The United States was forced to reduce its energy consumption by the embargo imposed last October by Middle East oil producing nations.

But the oil embargo ended March 18, apparently starting Americans back on the road to their former levels of energy use. Individual conservation efforts peaked in February and the first part of March, The AP survey shows.

"The energy office has been monitoring traffic to see what people would do once the lines (at gasoline stations) disappeared. People are going back to their old driving habits," said John C. Sawhill, who replaced Simon as administrator of the Federal Energy Office.

"There are as many people on the road now as there were in September before the embargo."

And Barry Budling, an official of the Connecticut Emergency Energy Office, said: "Connecticut citizens have gone back to their old gluttonous ways, people driving at the old speeds, one person in a car, the car pools having broken up."

The increase in auto use was reflected on several toll roads.

Receipts for Connecticut toll roads on Sunday, Feb. 3, were $31,549 — 55 per cent below a year ago. But receipts for Sunday, April 14, were $82,671 — down only 3 per cent from the year before.

And police in several states said the number of speeding citations was up.

"Since they no longer have to wait in line for gas, they feel they should no longer have to go 55," said Chief Will Bachofner of the Washington State Patrol. He said troopers issued 2,992 tickets in the first week of April this year, compared with a weekly average in 1973 of 1,480.

"They've gone wild again . . . They're just flying out there," said Capt. John S. Timmerman of the South Carolina Highway Patrol, which issued 10,390 speeding tickets in February and 13,446 in March.

Use of mass transit increased during the height of the energy shortage, but the AP survey shows ridership is falling off now.

The Mass Transit Authority of Baltimore, Md., said bus ridership picked up about 25 per cent in mid-February but now is only 7 or 8 per cent above 1973 levels.

Electric utilities across the nation also said conservation efforts appeared to be declining, but they said Americans still are not using the amount of electricity they would normally — an increase of about 6 per cent a year.

The Edison Electric Institute in New York said national electricity use during the first three months of the year generally stayed at or below last year's rate of consumption. For some weeks the amount used dropped more than 10 per cent below 1973 usage. But there was a 4.1 per cent increase nationally with the week ending March 30, a 1.1 per cent increase the next week, a decrease of 2 per cent the week ending April 13 and an increase of seven-tenths of 1 per cent last week.

Energy surveys conducted weekly by the National Opinion Research Center in Chicago indicated that the idea of car pools never caught on in most of the nation.

The Chicago research group said its three months of surveys showed that a large majority — about 85 per cent — thought the energy shortage was a very important national problem, but only 26 per cent of the respondents thought it was the most important.

In random survey by The AP of citizens across the nation, about half said they would continue saving energy. Sample comments from both sides were:

"I'm no longer trying to save energy. I don't think anything I could do would make a substantial difference" — Lowell Lifschultz of Chappaqua, N.Y.

"No, I am not practicing energy conservation. I believe this whole gas shortage thing is a hoax" — Mrs. E. Clay of Atlanta, Ga.

Memorial Day: What Day Is It?

Is Memorial Day May 27 or May 30 this year?

If you're a traditionalist, it's Thursday, May 30. If you're a state, county or city employee, it's May 30. If you're a federal employee, it's Monday, May 27. And for some, there will be no holiday at all.

The holiday confusion results from two different laws. In 1971, several federal holidays were designated as Mondays to create more three-day weekends, Memorial Day among them.

The Nebraska Legislature, however, voted in 1973 to retain May 30 as Memorial Day.

Most Lincoln merchants will observe the federal holiday by closing May 27 and remaining open May 30, according to the Lincoln Chamber of Commerce. However, Brandeis and J.C. Penney department store spokesmen said their stores will be open both days.

Lincoln Public Schools students and employees will not have any Memorial Day holiday. School will be held May 27, but the school year ends before May 30.

Lisbon Bullfights Thrilled Carriers

By JIM DeCAMP
Star Staff Writer

Suffering from jet lag, two young Journal-Star carrier boys returned from a 12-day jaunt through Portugal and Spain Thursday night.

David Allen, 12, of Hebron, and Dwight Groth, 14, of 1720 N. 52nd, were winners of the Sunday Journal-Star Parade Young Columbus trip.

Both boys agreed the highlight of the trip was the bullfights in Lisbon, Portugal, but they also enjoyed a dance by local fishermen in the village of Nazare, also in Portugal.

The boys, accustomed to Midwestern meals, had harsh opinions of the Spanish and Portuguese food.

Both termed the food "different," with wrinkled noses.

David said the group had fish every night in Portugal and the main dish in Spain was yellow rice with fish.

"It was bad," Dwight said. "Lousy."

They said the meat was greasy and had a vinegar taste to it.

The closest thing to American food they had was hot dogs.

Dwight summed up his culinary reaction, saying, "I like American food a lot better."

The group took a hovercraft ride to the island of Troy, where they went swimming.

They said the pool was supposed to be heated but no one could stand more than five minutes because the water felt like it was "20 below."

Other group activities included riding a ski lift to a resort at Avila, where they had a snowball fight, and visiting the Valley of the Fallen, where the dead of both sides in the Spanish Civil War are buried.

They said 10 girls were in the group of more than 100 paper carriers from across the nation.

The girls' group was the best, they said, because they won a medal for being the first group to be able to count off in Spanish.

Another place which fascinated the boys was a steel factory in Toledo where swords are manufactured.

David said each artisan has his own design, but does not have it written down to prevent it from being stolen. United Airlines was searching Thursday night for David's souvenir sword, which was lost in the baggage.

David, a Lincoln Journal carrier, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Allen of Hebron. Dwight, a Star carrier, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Groth of Lincoln.

The boys were chosen from a field of 1,575 newspaper carriers and both are in their second year of newspaper delivery.

Liquor License Hike Eyed

By LYNN ZERSCHLING
Star Staff Writer

Lincoln would stand to gain at least seven new drinking establishments and liquor dispensers under a proposal to be presented to city lawmakers Monday.

The city's license quota would be raised from 135 to 142 by an ordinance to be placed on first reading by Councilman John Robinson.

Under the plan, a ceiling on the number of licenses would be retained, but the numbers would be tied to the city's population. One license would be granted for each 1,150 residents.

Population figures would be based on the planning department's latest records, which are revised annually.

The 1973 figures show a population of 164,100. Based on the proposed formula, the new limit would be 142.

And the 1974 compilation is in the works, City Atty. Dick Wood said Thursday. It is estimated there are now between 167,000 and 168,000 Lincolinites.

Thus the maximum number of licenses allowed in the city could go up to 145 or 146.

Present city policy sets a flat 135 quota. That number is not based on population.

However, Wood said if the formula were used, based on a 167,000 population figure, there now exists one license for every 1,237 residents.

Robinson said the proposed formula "is about as realistic as reaching into the sky for that magic 135."

Wood admitted the 1,150 population figure is an abstract figure, "just like the 135 limit is."

Robinson, who has pushed for liquor license policy reform, said he has never been a strong advocate of a no numbers limitation policy.

About the only compromise he and Wood had to reach, Robinson remarked, was "I wanted one license for every 1,100 people and Wood wanted one for every 1,200." They compromised at 1,150.

If fellow lawmakers go along with the plan, Robinson said he hopes the dropping of additional licenses on the market would "dispell the monopoly which presently exists" and "would do something to bring down the market price."

The so-called "good will price" for transferring licenses has been estimated to range from $15,000 to $30,000. Legally, the licenses are non-transferable.

Robinson acknowledged that the real problem facing the council will be distribution of the newly created license slots.

He suggested a first-come, first-served policy might be the most equitable way to fill the vacancies. The council also would use other criteria laid down in the ordinance for approving applicants.

The proposed ordinance has built-in flexibility, Wood said. If the city annexes land, any operator in that annexed area will be able to keep his license, even if the addition would violate the current numbers lid.

And if Lincoln's population fell, that decrease would not mean a corresponding decrease in the number of licenses.

Additionally, the proposal continues to exempt licenses held by governmental agencies.

Licenses have been granted to Pershing Auditorium, the Municipal Airport and to Holmes and Pioneers golf courses.

The recommended policy also would continue to lump all classes of operators into one category.

Under an alternate plan, considered by Wood and rejected, the different classes would have been separated, with a ceiling placed on each class.

The council will hold a public hearing on the ordinance May 6.

Hearings May Center On Abortion

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Sen. Terry Carpenter has scheduled three days of legislative hearings in Omaha which could center on the University of Nebraska's abortion policies the week before the May 14 primary election.

The hearings, conducted by the Legislative Council's executive board, chaired by Carpenter, are slated for May 7-9 at the Douglas County Courthouse.

Invited witnesses include Gov. J. James Exon, NU President D. B. Varner, Medical Center Chancellor Robert Sparks, College of Medicine Dean Robert Kugel, two NU regents who are doctors, and two staff members who perform abortions both in and outside the center.

The abortion controversy, currently the subject of a lawsuit, is a topic of particular concern among the large Catholic population of Omaha.

Carpenter is a candidate for the Democratic nomination for lieutenant governor in the May 14 election.

Under study by the executive board is a resolution, sponsored by Carpenter, which seeks a legislative analysis and evaluation of the outside professional and consulting fees earned by state employees.

The resolution, LR173, centers on employees who are paid $28,000 or more annually by the state, and earn $10,000 or more a year in outside fees.

Also targeted for legislative evaluation are fee-splitting arrangements involving state employees.

"The issue is more than abortions," Carpenter noted.

But the study unit does want to familiarize itself with NU abortion policies to "find out where we're going," he said.

Two Medical Center staff members have filed suit in federal court against the NU Board of Regents, contending that the regents have restricted their rights to teach and practice medicine by refusing to grant them permanent part-time status to perform abortions outside the center.

The regents have adopted a policy restricting the number of abortions which may be performed at the Medical Center.

"I think we need to find out the legal ramifications," Carpenter said. "We want to deal in facts and determine what control, if any, the Legislature has over the Medical Center in this area of concern."

Other invited witnesses include representatives of the State Department of Public Welfare, the State Department of Health, the Nebraska Medical Assn., and the Nebraska Hospital Assn.

Among invited regents are Dr. Robert Koefoot of Grand Island and Dr. Robert Prokop of Papillion.

Among invited staff members are Dr. William Orr and Dr. Marvin Dietrich, the obstetrician-gynecologists who have taken the issue to court.

When the regents adopted a policy limiting the number of abortions at the Medical Center to 15 a week, and prohibiting outside abortions by full-time staff members, the two doctors requested part-time status and opened their own clinic.

When the regents granted them part-time status only for a temporary 90-day period, the doctors took their case to court.

Terry Workman, chief board negotiator, said the LEA accepted a commitment to raise the base pay for a starting teacher by $690, plus increments (the number of dollars given for a year of service).

That juncture came in executive session, Workman said, after the teams met formally Thursday evening in their sixth bargaining session. The board team last Friday warned it would make no more counteroffers unless the LEA scaled down its request for a 16.03% increase in the total dollars budgeted for teacher salaries.

Before going into executive session, the board team in its third counter-proposal offered LEA an increase of $660 at the beginning step, representing a 10% overall average increase and a hike from its last 7.83% offer.

The LEA team immediately asked for a 10.53% hike in the basic schedule, and a total increase of 11.27% including an added lan for masters degree plus 18 graduate hours and two service steps.

Workman, administrative assistant for management services, said, "The board believes that 10% should treat the needs and demands of the teachers as they relate to the cost of living."

Peterson pointed out the new cost-of-living index puts inflation for the year ending in March at 10.2%.

Workman commended the LEA for the "significant move" of reducing its request to 11.27%, saying, "That closes the gap."

But Peterson said the board offer of 10% "isn't enough." He explained the cost of living in the first quarter this year increased 14%, price controls have expired and Social Security payments will rise.

"That's one of the reasons you've got to put more money at the top of that schedule," Peterson said.

Workman delivered an ultimatum saying, "If the schedule is not justifiable to the LEA, my instructions are that I would have to pull back on the percentage offer."

The board's feeling, he said, is that 10% is a fair, equitable percentage.

After the teams came out of executive session Workman said, "We have not come up with the exact percentages. A $690 base pay hike would bring."

According to The Star's unofficial calculations, the starting teachers

Case Against Mitchell, Stans Goes To U.S. Jury

New York (AP) — The federal court jury was sent to bed Thursday night unable to agree in initial deliberations on a criminal conspiracy case against former Atty. Gen. John Mitchell and onetime Commerce Secretary Maurice Stans.

The jurors got the case late Thursday afternoon after a 10-week trial — the first criminal prosecutions of Cabinet colleagues in nearly 50 years of American history.

Exactly 30 minutes after the jurors filed out of the courtroom, they were back, having sent a note requesting 12 copies of the indictment. These subsequently were provided.

Later, the jurors requested and received a reading from documents and the judge's charge relating to laws governing the public reporting of campaign contributions — one of the issues in the conspiracy charge against Mitchell and Stans.

The panel had heard the government in its final summation brand the defendants liars under oath "not just once, not just twice, but many times."

"The law says you cannot lie under oath," Asst. U.S. Atty. John Wing told the nine men and three women jurors in ringing tones, "no matter who you are, how big or how small. That oath is the cornerstone of our judicial system."

When Wing completed his 6½-hour final summation, which he had begun Wednesday,

Mitchell's lawyer, Peter Fleming Jr., asked for a mistrial, because of "repeated characterizations of the defendants as liars."

Judge Lee P. Gagliardi denied the motion. Then he launched into a 137-page charge to the jury. He advised them on the points of law to consider in reaching their verdict, after first telling them "You are to perform this final duty in an atmosphere of complete calm and impartiality."

Mitchell, 60, and Stans, 66, are accused of a conspiracy to obstruct a massive Securities and Exchange Commission fraud investigation into the corporate empire of international financier Robert L. Vesco.

The government charges it was an influencepeddling scheme paid for by Vesco's secret $200,000 cash contribution to President Nixon's 1972 re-election campaign.

The pair are jointly charged with one count of conspiracy and two of obstructing justice, plus six separate counts each of perjury. The maximum penalty attached to all counts is 45 years in federal prison.

"Each count must be considered separately," Gagliardi instructed the jury.

Libson — The takeover by young Army officers in Portugal followed a steady democratization produced by the country's efforts to preserve its overseas territories. The democratization, marked by erosion of the Portugal's political and social stability, was aggravated by frustration over the government's inability either to end the fighting in the African territories or to enlist the help of Portugal's North Atlantic allies.

Rhodesia Awaits Portuguese Decision

Salisbury (London Times) — The Rhodesian government is anxiously watching the military coup in Portugal as any change in policy toward Africa by a new Lisbon regime could have far-reaching effects on Southern Africa.

Kissinger Revives Department Morale

Washington — After seven months as secretary of State, Henry A. Kissinger has succeeded in reviving the morale of the State Department and restoring its traditional place at the center of foreign policy making. A review of his tenure indicates that Kissinger has accomplished this by the force of his personality, the transfer of his main operations from the White House to the department and the appointment of highly motivated, individualistic, loyal aides to high posts.

Nixon Welcomed In Mississippi

Jackson, Miss. — President Nixon received a rousing welcome from an overflow audience of 10,000 and words of welcome from the Democratic governor of Mississippi as the President delivered a speech promising peace and prosperity for a generation. The President's appearance at the Mississippi Coliseum in Jackson drew the largest and most enthusiastic reception to date in his public campaign against impeachment.

Two Men Work On Nixon Taxes

Washington — Two of the men to whom the White House has assigned responsibility for "any errors" in President Nixon's income tax returns are continuing to assist him in his personal financial dealings. Arthur Blech, a Los Angeles accountant, is reported to be preparing the President's federal return for 1973, due June 15. Blech is being supplied with information on Nixon's finances from files in the office of Frank DeMarco Jr., the California lawyer with whom the accountant has worked in the past on Nixon tax matters.

No Reaction To Catholic Charge

Santiago — Neither the military junta nor the government-controlled newspapers reacted Thursday to the statement of the Roman Catholic Church in Chile that was highly critical of the government's failure to observe human rights.

Army Takes Power In Portugal

Lisbon (UPI) — Rebel armed forces overthrew Premier Marcelo Caetano Thursday, using cannons and tanks to oust Portugal's dictatorial regime in protest against the African wars of the world's last major colonial power.

Caetano, 67, handed over the government to Gen. Antonio de Spínola, a liberal-minded war hero who was fired by Caetano for saying the country could not win its 13-year battle against African liberation movements.

Exile Demanded

Caetano bowed to rebel demands that he and other high-ranking members of the government go into unconditional exile on the Portuguese island of Madeira, off the Atlantic coast of North Africa, according to the chief of the Caetano government information service, who acted as intermediary in the takeover.

Caetano surrendered to leaders of the coup at his stronghold in the national police headquarters, 12 hours after the rebels sent a column of tanks into the heart of Lisbon and announced they had seized control of the country.

Election Raises Hopes Of S. African Liberals

©The New York Times

London Times Dispatch Johannesburg, South Africa — The Progressive Party won six parliamentary seats in Wednesday's general election overshadowing the Nationalists' solid victory and raising new hopes among liberals here.

The official opposition United Party, meanwhile, suffered a setback. In addition to the five seats it lost to the Progressives, it lost four to the National Party and saw the majorities of its leading old guard conservatives heavily slashed.

With some easily predictable seats still to be returned, the computer-projected result Thursday was the Nationalists 122 (previously 119), the United Party 43 (previously 46) and the Progressive Party six (previously one).

The presence of the six Progressives is expected to revitalize the parliamentary scene and to provide a much-needed boost for anti-apartheid ta would rule the country until free elections are held. They announced a program of democratic reforms.

Thousands of jubilant Lisbon residents gathered around the police headquarters building, shouting "Freedom, Freedom!" and "Victory, Victory!" when Spínola arrived to take over.

The rebels, calling themselves the Armed Forces Movement, said several pockets of resistance still existed in Lisbon, including a stronghold where President Americo Thomaz and several other members of the Caetano cabinet were holding out.

Violin Auctioned For $139,200 Bid

London (UPI) — American violinist Elaine Weldon sold her Guarneri violin Thursday for $139,200, the second highest auction price ever paid for a musical instrument.

A spokesman for Christie's, the art auction house where the sale was held, said the highest price paid for a violin was $201,600 paid for a Stradivarius at Sotheby's in 1971.

A London dealer bought Miss Weldon's violin, which was made by Joseph Guarneri del Jesu in Cremona, Italy, in 1733.

Liz, Dick To End 10-Year Marriage

Hollywood (UPI) — The high-voltage marriage of Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton which was marked by a crescendo of drinking bouts and extramarital romances came to an end Thursday.

Miss Taylor, 42, was staying at a Beverly Hills Hotel while Burton, 48, was hospitalized a few miles away when they made the joint announcement.

Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton have requested that their long-time friend and attorney Aaron R. Frosch proceed to legally terminate their 10-year marriage on the grounds of irreconcilable differences.

Frosch has indicated that the divorce will be obtained in Bern, Switzerland, where the Burtons have been residents for many years.

Burton has been hospitalized for 12 days suffering a lung infection. Miss Taylor, who returned from a Hawaii vacation Tuesday, had not been to visit her husband.

Miss Taylor left Burton on the location site of his most recent movie in Oroville, Calif., last month. Friends said she was humiliated by his attentions and gifts to young women in the small town.

He in turn, resented her romance with Los Angeles car dealer Henry Wynberg last summer after their first separation.

Zebra Search Halted

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A federal judge issued a preliminary injunction Thursday to halt the widespread stopping of young blacks in the controversial Operation Zebra search for the killer or killers of 12 whites.

U.S. District Court Judge Alfonso Zirpoli issued the injunction after hearing arguments by civil liberties groups that the week-old police practice was unconstitutional and a violation of black men's rights.

The judge said no one may be stopped in the hunt for the killer unless there is other independent evidence, such as conduct, which creates a reasonable suspicion that the person is committing a crime.

The injunction also prohibits searching or frisking any person solely because he appears to fit the composite sketch of the Zebra killer.

The case involves lawsuits filed by the NAACP and the American Civil Liberties Union challenging the order by Mayor Joseph Alioto that police stop and search blacks who fit the description of the man or men authorities say have killed 12 whites and wounded six others in random shootings since last November. About 600 men have been stopped since last Wednesday.

Earlier, Police Chief Donald Scott told Zirpoli that a set of revised guidelines for the Zebra dragnet had been put into effect that include a provision that police observe a man's appearance and demeanor before they stop him.

At the first hearing Wednesday, Chief Police Inspector Charles A. Barca said the "Operation Zebra" dragnet was being curtailed drastically after failing to produce clues in six days of searches.

In addition to requesting an end to the searches, the suits raised objections to the police practice of issuing field interrogation cards to blacks when an officer felt that more than casual questioning was needed. The suit charged such cards gave those questioned a police record

Scott said that under the new guidelines such field interrogation cards would be sealed and kept for four years and then destroyed.

Socal's Profits Rise 90%

NEW YORK (AP) — The nation's fifth and seventh largest oil companies announced on Thursday sharp increases in first quarter profits.

Standard Oil of California, fifth nationally in terms of sales, said profits after taxes for the quarter rose 90 per cent to $293 million from $153 million for the same period in 1973. And the company said its gross revenues for worldwide operations jumped 105 per cent from $1.9 billion to $3.9 billion in the two quarters.

In Houston, Shell Oil Co., a subsidiary of Holland's Royal

Dutch Shell and this country's seventh biggest oil firm, reported profits on U.S. operations of $121.8 million for the three months ended March 31, a 52 per cent rise over the $80.2 million for the period a year ago. Shell's gross revenues increased to $1.8 billion from $1.2 billion for the 1973 period.

Compared to the fourth quarter of last year, when the oil companies first reported their large gains, Socal's first quarter profits improved 3 per cent and Shell's 54 per cent.

Also reporting Thursday was Marathon Oil, a smaller integrated oil firm, which said profits for the last three months were up 52 per cent to $30.6 million from an operating net income of $20.1 million reported a year ago.

Marathon said an accounting change in the first quarter of 1973 reduced net income to $14.4 million from the so-called operating net. For the latest quarter, the Ohio-based company posted gross revenues of $755.5 million versus $410.5 million in 1973.

Brandt's Aide Arrested

BONN, Germany (AP) — An aide to Chancellor Willy Brandt was under arrest Thursday as the alleged key man in a Communist East German spy ring in a burgeoning scandal that could cause more problems for his already weakened government.

Federal prosecutor Siegfried Buback confirmed in Karlsruhe that 47-year-old Guenter Guillaume, Brandt's personal assistant for affairs concerning his Social Democratic party, was among "several people" detained in Bonn by security men Wednesday.

Guillaume has admitted he is an officer in East Germany's National People's Army and an espionage collaborator of East Berlin's Ministry for State Security, Buback said.

A government spokesman said the other persons held for investigation of spy charges are Guillaume's wife Christel, who worked as a secretary for the Hessian State government's Bonn office; two of her colleagues, and her mother.

Though the chancellery aide wielded no political authority and the government claimed he did not handle state secrets, observers said they believed he was in an excellent position to gain information on government and party affairs.

The discovery of a security leak so close to Brandt was a further blow to the chancellor's embattled political position, recently weakened by setbacks in state and local elections. The case dimmed his hopes for recovering voter support in state elections in Lower Saxony on June 9.

The spy scandal also undermined Brandt's lagging drive to normalize relations with East Germany and end their old cold war rivalry. The scandal broke the same day that the two Germanys signed long-awaited agreements on financial and health cooperation.

FEO Orders Refunds, Rollbacks

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal investigations of fuel price gouging will produce nearly $36 million in refunds to consumers, energy chief John C. Sawhill said Thursday.

In addition to paying refunds, offending dealers have been ordered to roll back their prices immediately and in some cases to pay civil penalties of up to $2,500 for each day they violated the legal ceiling price. Sawhill said in testimony before a House subcommittee.

Sawhill said more than half the refunds will go to consumers victimized by propane brokers who illegally drove the price of propane up as much as 300 per cent, often by conducting fake paper transactions in which the propane never changed hands.

Audits of propane dealers by the FEO will result in an estimated $21.5 million in refunds. Sawhill told a House government operations subcommittee.

Another $14.2 million in refunds to buyers of propane-gasoline, home heating oil and diesel fuel can be expected as a result of routine checks conducted by the Internal Revenue Service, Sawhill added.

Panhandle Has $22.2-Million Net

Houston (AP) — Panhandle Eastern Pipe Line Co. reports first quarter net earnings of $22.2 million or $1.49 per share of common stock compared with $20.3 million or $1.36 the same 1973 period.

Revenue for the quarter came to $153.9 million, up from $139.7 million

Nixon: Economy Will Rise

Jackson, Miss. (AP) — President Nixon said Thursday the nation's economy has passed through "the lowest point of the downturn" and will move forward again in the second half of the year.

The President delivered his optimistic economic forecast on a quick trip to the South arranged as part of his campaign to rebuild confidence in his Watergate-troubled administration.

Ted Promises To Help Soviet Jews

Moscow (UPI) — Eleven Soviet Jews said Sen. Edward M. Kennedy promised them in an early morning meeting Thursday he would do everything he could to help them emigrate.

The Jews, who made a recording of the meeting, quoted Kennedy as saying, "I will do everything I can to help because the issue is of great importance to the U.S. people and Congress."

A Soviet KGB secret police agent, apparently acting as Kennedy's bodyguard, accompanied the Massachusetts Democrat to the one-hour, 10-minute session which began at 1:15 a.m., Moscow time.

Kennedy asked the Jews if they objected to the agent's presence and they said they did not.

Kennedy traveled to the home of internationally known cyberneticist Alexander Lerner in a government limousine put at his disposal shortly after he returned from a one-day trip to Leningrad. Lerner has been trying to emigrate to Israel for more than two years.

The meeting was held at Kennedy's request.

Before leaving Moscow, Kennedy acknowledged he had met with the Jews. Kennedy said his talks with Soviet leaders had not changed his view that the Soviet Union should allow free emigration if it wants trade credits.

Planners Back 56th St. Site

A key piece of the city's shopping center puzzle — the City-County Planning Commission's site preference — was placed on the board Wednesday when the planning panel recommended 56th and Old Cheney Road as the location for Lincoln's next regional shopping center.

The commission's unanimous recommendation is seen not so much as an affirmation of eastward expansion policy as it is a decision based on very practical criteria.

Developer Hub Hall, the shopping center sweepstakes winner thus far pending final City Council action, has agreed to remodel his plans according to a proposal formulated by the economic consulting firm Hammer-Siler-George, which calls for development of a 71-acre center containing 780,000 square feet for retail purposes by the year 2000. The planners indicated they would agree to additional commercial zoning on Hall's land on the northeast corner of 56th and Old Cheney Road to accommodate a new center.

The commission had also reviewed applications by developers for shopping centers at 84th and O and 27th and Old Cheney Road. The latter site had a qualified recommendation for approval from Planning Director Douglas Brogden and it would more easily than the others fit into the radial growth of Lincoln concept which has been an underpinning of city planning here for some years. Developers of the 27th St. site have also said they would anchor their shopping center with new stores operated by Miller and Paine and Brandeis, two of Lincoln's leading retail outlets.

But strong opposition was mounted by residents of the immediate area adjacent to the 27th St. site and that was probably one major factor affecting the commission's recommendation—which was based on assumptions that a shopping center at 56th would have less of an adverse effect on the surrounding area and would create less traffic problems and require less major street work for access because 56th is already a four-lane arterial and widening of Hwy. 2 is now on the drawing board; that the site would be less competitive with downtown and would be better for drawing people in from the trade area to the southeast and that people in the 27th St. area are already adequately served by existing retail facilities. The question of the site's impact on the Stevens Creek watershed controversy did not seem to be an overriding factor, although it can be anticipated that a shopping center at 56th and Old Cheney Road would encourage development to the southeast.

We think the commission's recommendation for Lincoln's next regional shopping center, based on a year's intensive study and subjected to the subtle influences of competing development plans and public opinion, is a sound one on which the City Council can take final action. At the very least, the commission has faithfully noted which plan best suits Lincoln's existing residential patterns and street facilities.

Those Outtasight Profits

Right now, as the nation suffers under a federally-sanctioned economic policy which permits price to regulate demand on motor fuel said to still be in short supply, we will just have to take the oil companies' word for it that soaring profits will generate more gas in the future.

Although, it is much more difficult to believe such a promise when an oil executive comments, as one did recently, that the industry is deserving of the windfall if only because of lower profit years in the past.

The average guy sees the price at the pump go up and up, and he reads that the oil giants realized first-quarter profits of 39% or 81% or 123% over the same period last year while smaller fry in the oil world had even better reason to smile; first quarter profits in excess of 700% in some cases. He knows he will never see cheap gas again, but he hopes, because the companies said so, that some of the money will go into development of new supplies which will be sold at a reasonable price, not a budget-busting price, and some for research into the total energy picture.

It's entirely a matter of faith, and we think he wants to believe that the system ultimately will work for everybody, not just the few.

If it doesn't, he will have been the victim of one of the most cynical ripoffs in our history and the government that let it happen will have been a willing accomplice in the crime.

Variety Of Catastrophists In Conflict

WASHINGTON — Immanuel Velikovsky is a catastrophist. Nearing 80, the author of "Worlds in Collision" and "Earth In Upheaval" has for the past generation been setting forth a cataclysmic view of history. His theory is that ancient myths and scripture were reporting fact, not creating epic in recounting earthshaking events or apparent miracles: the Bible and our mythology are mankind's collective memory of events that took place in pre-history.

For example, Velikovsky suggests that the planet Jupiter threw off a chunk of itself which narrowly missed the earth and collided with Mars, bouncing off to settle in orbit as the planet Venus.

This action of Venus as a kind of celestial pinball did not go unnoticed around 1500 B.C., when Moses led his people out of Egypt, taking that unfortunate left turn away from the oil reserves. The gravitational tug of Venus is what parted the Red Sea, goes this thesis, and the fallout of hydrocarbons from the nichocheing planet in the form of carbonhydrates were set down in scripture as manna from heaven.

The astronomical and historical professions have combined to hoot at Velikovsky: his million-book sales and current campus revival drive conventional stargazers up the wall of space. Scientists who have threatened to boycott his publisher are only now coming to regret their censorious impatience with a curmudgeon.

Velikovsky is of interest because he is a catastrophist whose ideas clash with the establishment of the physical sciences; but over in the realm of the social and political sciences, the catastrophists are firmly in command.

Astronomical catastrophists like Velikovsky look back and fit great cataclysms into their reading of the past, social catastrophists look ahead and project disaster into their readings of the future. Each has a few intriguing facts to go on, and constructs eye-popping visions out of the most speculative extrapolations.

The population catastrophists — a hardy band that has been in business for more than a century — have been saying that a population "explosion" will turn prairies into urban slums. But now a pall of gloom has lowered over these prophets of doom: The American birth rate is dropping, knocking confident predictions of "300 million Americans by the year 2000" into a cocked hat.

Nothing daunted, a new breed of population catastrophists is arising: this mutation extrapolates the dip in the birth rate and sees an end to economic growth: envisions an only-child psychology gripping the nation's youth, and warns of an aging populace putting the dead hand of conservatism on fresh ideas.

The economic catastrophists meanwhile, have concluded that galloping inflation is here to stay and that we had better emulate the action of Brazil in learning to love it. But even as they prepare to slip a wedding ring on the cost of living index finger (nobody shoots at Escalator Clause), the news comes from the coast of Peru that the anchovies are back.

Intractable readers of these essays are finely tuned to the meaning of the retreat of the El Nino current and the return to the fisherman's nets of the protein-rich anchovies: a plentiful supply of anchovies drops the world price of soybeans and cattle feed, slowing down the inflation of food prices. In economics, too, the catastrophists may be foiled.

The energy catastrophists came and went in a hurry: it seems that disastrous shortages were averted by a hike in the world price of fuel. Perhaps the four-cylinder car will be needed to match oil supplies in the generation ahead, or an electric car to draw its charge every night from a central source that makes electricity from coal and atomic power, but a healthy combination of scientific genius and human greed is likely to overcome the seemingly insurmountable.

The environmental catastrophists, whose "Club of Rome" thundered horrendous warnings of international suffocation only a few years ago, were caught in a crossfire between the energy-worries and the birth-rate statistics, discovering that in media love affairs, three calamities are a crowd, and what had been the center of our concerns has now become the least of our worries.

The catastrophists of the social sciences, who keep changing their targets and pushing back the date of the end of the world, have much to learn from cosmological Velikovsky: the only credit anyone will get for recognizing a cataclysm is if it may have already happened.

Future catastrophe is an elusive brass ring, rarely ready to be snatched by those who equate seriousness with pessimism, and seldom seen by pundits who claim to find long-term trends in short-order facts. It is fine to see a world in a grain of sand, but sometimes all there is in a grain of sand is a grain of sand.

ALBERT SINDLINGER

The American people are so concerned about the economy that they would hoard most of the money involved in any tax cut, thereby defeating its purpose of economic stimulation.

These and other public attitudes toward inflation and the economy emerged in a nationwide Phillips-Sindlinger telephone poll of 4,426 persons.

81% of those surveyed fear inflation more now than they did last June.

About half agree that the U.S. is now in a recession.

48% of those questioned would save rather than spend money released by a federal tax cut, and the highest rate of savings would occur in the over-$15,000 a year bracket.

As of the end of the first quarter of 1974, Americans are caught up in a peculiar kind of economic fear. On one hand, almost half (47%) of those we quizzed said that more people were being laid off now in comparison with several months ago, and 48% agreed that the United States was already in a recession.

Meanwhile, concern about inflation is extremely high. Eighty-one per cent of those questioned said that they fear inflation more now than they did last June, and most families see their purchasing power already shrinking before their eyes.

Because of these apprehensions, many Americans are swinging to a kind of self-protective "hedge" economics:

paying off debts and building up savings accounts to hedge against the possibility of bad times. Spending plans and enthusiasm are relatively low.

To find out what Americans would do with the money if Congress voted a tax cut, our interviewers asked the following question: "If you were to receive a federal income tax cut of say 10% — that is for every dollar you are now paying, you would save ten cents on the dollar — what would you do: Would you spend it for something you need to buy, would you use it to pay bills, or would you save it?"

Among our entire sample, 20% said they would spend the money, 27% said they would pay bills, 48% said they would save it, and 6% gave another alternative or didn't know.

But within this overall sample, there were crucial differences in response by income group. Among persons with family incomes under $10,000 per year, 22% said they would spend the savings, 34% said they'd pay bills, and 39% said they'd save the cash. In the $10-15,000 a year bracket, only 16% said they would spend the money, 29% said they would pay bills and 50% said they would put the money into savings.

Moving up to the over-$15,000 a year families, the pattern was even more savings-oriented: 19% said they would spend the money, 17% said they would pay bills, and 58% said they would

"If you were to receive a federal income tax cut of say ten percent—that is for every dollar you are now paying you would save ten cents on the dollar—what would you do: Would you spend it for something you need to buy, would you use it to pay bills, or would you save it?"

their indebtedness had increased or decreased during the same period. With regard to savings, 35% said their savings had increased since October, while only 23% reported a shrinkage. In contrast, only 20% said that they owed more now than in October, while 38% said that their indebtedness had been reduced.

Looking ahead to the next six months, people were less sure about their ability to save. Thirty-three per cent expected to be able to increase their savings, but 34% thought that their savings would decline — that they would have to dip into the kitty.

At the same time, looking ahead to October, 1974, a substantial plurality of families expected to have less debt than they do now. Only 15% expect the amount of money they owe to increase, while a whopping 45% reported that they expect less debt.

Meshed together, these intentions and psychologies add up to a portrait of a worried public. If Congress and the President cut taxes, that money will largely be used to pay bills and fatten savings accounts — in short, it will largely be withdrawn from circulation, conceivably aggravating the recession instead of stimulating the economy by stimulating spending. Until basic consumer fears are overcome, a tax cut could easily be counterproductive.

The Legislature's passage of LB 815, the obscenity law, is like its attempts to modify abortion regulations. Senators yielded to church minorities wishing to force everyone into a Christian behavior pattern. I understand the lawmakers acted merely to silence the "pious" mob with the unconstitutional law it desired.

The enforcement of a Christian ethic on all is an infringement of civil rights. While I personally despise hard-core pornography, I have no right to insist others agree with me or to ban its sale. People are not compelled to buy smut nor are they forcibly escorted into restricted theaters. That is an act of free will, and abridging it is a violation of individual liberty. A naive cleric argued on this page that Terry Carpenter's proposed tax on pornography was like a tariff on murder — implicit consent; a vain fundamentalist assumption that crimes which physically harm others are the same as the intensely personal lust for obscenity Christians call sin.

Equation of these two is an attempt to legislate personal morality. Even God left something to conscience.

There is indeed cause for concern. It is impossible for conservative parents to enforce behavior in their homes. Modern civilization has made Christian ethics impractical. Our chronic shortage of funds and thirst for success force many of us to violate legal and moral precepts daily. Walk down O Street and you can spot 50 petty dishonesties within a block; merchant and consumer alike. Yet all solemnly teach the Commandments and urge law and order.

It is the examples of parents, rather than their teachings, that make petty criminals of their children; they lose respect for Mother and Father, then defy them. Parents, on the other hand, in an agony of guilt over their own failings, find it difficult to insist.

In this vacuum between example and teaching, they desperately seek a disciplinary alter-ego which becomes school in some instances (in loco parentis being a way of making schools, through economic sanctions, discipline children better than parents can), legal agencies in others. Teachers and police are thus required to bear the unfair burden of parental discipline. In other words, the present law-and-order craze is an attempt to "pass the buck."

This is the real reason for the fuss about abortion and obscenity. Failing parents and clergy, knowing they cannot keep their own charges from underground movies, pornography and illicit sex, or prohibit abortion, seek to make the state responsible and forbid everyone; ignoring rights.

The strain this would put on law-enforcement and schools should really be met by a tax on parents — so much per child, with heavy surcharges for families with delinquent children.

Abortion too, is a matter of conscience and civil right, to be exercised by discriminating citizens. Infringement of that right is an overbearing attempt to make others live by one's own standards. A leading magazine says that the National Right to Life Committee advocates a constitutional amendment that would protect fetuses from the moment of fertilization and ban birth control methods the morning after. Imagine!

Recently, a church newsletter urged letters to Congress advocating astronauts be allowed to continue their "deep space sermonizing." It acclaimed this a "Christian triumph." Aside from the kindergarten theology in astral assurances that "God is really up there," observe the matter of astronaut propaganda. All Americans foot the bill for space exploration, though much less than half believe in a Christian God.

This is another example of forcing Christianity on the nation, in defiance of the Constitution. One should demonstrate for agnostic "equal time."

A final bit of Christian disdain: distraught parents are presently agitating in local junior high schools to ban courses on evolution. Their argument: "Kids should not be disturbed with this issue in junior high" — again haughtily ignoring others' right to the course. Some contend that as evolution is a theory, it should not be taught; as though all knowledge but evolution were fact, or God himself objectively provable. Only Christian children are disturbed by evolution courses, and that because church indoctrination has not been modernized. As for when it should be taught; shocked freshmen at NU ask, "Why wasn't I told all this sooner?"

I will fight for Christianity's civil right to preach its views, but true patriotism bids me to fight also for others' rights to ignore it or substitute their own.

Fine Sport Of Rodeo

Lincoln, Neb.
A. Hageman (Apr. 16 Star) evidently was not raised on a ranch or knows anything about ranching. It is a lot easier and quicker to go out in a pasture and rope a sick calf and treat it right on the spot than to try to chase it all the way to the nearest corral or working chute. This is how the roping event got started. It is not cruel to the calf, at all. Cattle are a lot tougher than people.

As for the bucking events, they are just variations of the Old West cowboys' methods of breaking a horse to ride. The saddle bronc event originated from cowboys trying to break horses to ride. They began to make a game out of it to see who could ride a bucking horse the longest. The flank strap doesn't hurt the horse. It is like a woman wearing a girdle. It is uncomfortable and the horse tries to kick it off. I am a bronc rider myself and let me say that it is a lot rougher on the rider than it is on the horse.

One cowboy on top of 1,500 to 2,000 pounds of twisting, bucking and turning bull is like a flea on a dog's back.

I think rodeo is a lot better sport than watching 22 guys see how hard they can knock each other down just to carry an oblong piece of pigskin between two poles.

I'm for the re-election of our governor, J. James Exon, and the man he has chosen to work with him, Jerry Whelan. The governor has made Nebraska a state to be proud of the last 3½ years and I hope he can continue for another 4½ years. But how can he continue working for improvement when the lieutenant governor is fighting him at every turn?

Jerry Whelan is a strong man, a good Democrat and a team player.

War, Political Parties

Lincoln, Neb.
A recent Harris poll indicates that more people believe that both prosperity and keeping the peace are more favorable during the Democratic than Republican administrations. This poll shows how inaccurate they are, or possibly how they can be manipulated. One has only to review the history of this century containing the record as to which political party is most likely to involve our country in war.

We have been involved in several wars during the past 60 years. In every instance, war has come during Democratic administrations. The late President Wilson campaigned on a promise of never going to war. During his term, we became involved in World War I. The late FDR campaigned on the promise that no American boys would fight in Europe. During one of his terms we became involved in World War II. The late President Truman during his term engaged us in the Korean War. The late Presidents Kennedy and Johnson got us into the Vietnam War. This war was our longest, most costly and most stupid of all wars.

A Republican, Eisenhower, got us out of the war in Korea. Another Republican, Nixon, got us out of the Vietnam War. How can any person responding to the question as to which political party is more likely to keep us out of war select Democratic administrations?

NU Agronomy Club Honors Go To Newcomer, Veteran

A newcomer to the University of Nebraska-Lincoln administrative team and a longtime Nebraska agronomist received honorary memberships into the NU Agronomy Club at the club's annual awards banquet Thursday night.

Dr. Duane Acker, newly named vice chancellor for agriculture and natural resources at NU, and Dr. Laurence C. Newell, research agronomist with the Agricultural Research Service (ARS), were lauded by the club for their contributions to agriculture.

Named to his post April 1, Acker has been dean of the College of Agriculture and Biological Sciences, South Dakota State University, Brookings. The Atlantic, Iowa, native holds a B.S. degree in animal science and an M.S. degree in animal nutrition from Iowa State University, and a Ph.D. in animal nutrition from Oklahoma State University. He has served in teaching and administrative positions at Oklahoma State, Iowa State, Kansas State and South Dakota State Universities.

Newell has served as research agronomist with the ARS since 1954, and held positions with the Soil Conservation Service, the USDA Bureau of Plant Industry and has been an agricultural agent in Saunders and Stanton counties. He was a high school science teacher and principal at Davenport.

Rodney Tietz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Tietz of Bancroft, was awarded the $500 Keim Scholarship in recognition of academic excellence and interest in plant breeding. He plans to do graduate work in plant breeding.

Rodney Hesser, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Hesser of Adams, received the outstanding senior award. Following his graduation in December, he with his wife Mitzi plan to enter the Peace Corps.

The advisor's award went to Dennis Cihacek of Morse Bluff.

The award is given to the senior who has contributed most to the club. Cihacek is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Albin Cihacek.

Davis Schwasinger, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Schwasinger of Ogallala, was named the first recipient of the Vogel Scholarship. This annual award goes to a junior majoring in agronomy who has shown academic excellence and has served his fellow students and the College of Agriculture.

Winners of the club's essay contest, announced at the banquet, were Ron Huss of Lexington, first; Calvin Paschold of Firth, second; and William Siefert of Bennet, third. The three top speakers in the agronomy club's speech contest were Keith Johnson of York, first; Ron Heerten of Springview, second; and Larry Rasmussen of Mead, third.

It was announced at the banquet that Lori Wildhagen, a freshman from Omaha, will compete in the crops and weeds identification contest at the national convention of the American Society of Agronomy. The first place winner in the junior division of the local contest, Keith Johnson of York, will not be able to compete in the national contest as he is a national officer. Miss Wildhagen placed second in the local contest and Bill Siefert of Bennet was third.

Winners in the senior division of the local crops and weeds identification contest were Paschold, first; Jim Nelson of Lincoln, second; and Paul Rieger of Falls City, third.

Layne Mann of Wayne was cited for his top rating in the club's soil judging contest. Cihacek placed second and Donald Schlichtemeier of Murray, third.

2 Men Die, 2 Injured In Collision

Scottsbluff (AP) — Two men were killed and two others injured Wednesday evening in the collision of two cars 2.3 miles west of Scottsbluff on Highway 26.

The State Patrol said those killed were Gary Tjardes, 24, and Newel Boden, 28, both of Scottsbluff.

Officers said Tjardes was alone in one car. Boden was with Vern Richter, 26, of Mitchell and Richard Graves, 26, of Scottsbluff. Both were reported in "satisfactory" condition at a Scottsbluff hospital.

Tjardes reportedly was going east. It was not known who was driving the westbound auto carrying the three men.

The deaths raised Nebraska's 1974 traffic fatality toll to 91, compared with 118 at this time last year.

Chadron Man Dies Of Burns In San Antonio

Chadron (AP) — Willard Daley, 41, of Chadron died Wednesday night at Brooke Army Medical Center at San Antonio, Tex., of burns suffered in an accident at a Nebraska Public Power District substation April 15.

He was a foreman on an NPPD crew and came in contact with a 34,000-volt switch while he and two other men were installing equipment.

A team of specialists flew from Brooke to supervise initial treatment, after which Daley was taken to the San Antonio hospital April 16.

Survivors include his wife, a son and two daughters, his mother and two brothers.

Services will be at 2 p.m. Monday at the United Methodist Church in Chadron.

Why Buy a Lot at Beaver Lake?

BECAUSE . . .

You can purchase a lot at Beaver Lake for about the cost of a medium priced automobile . . . yet by the time you finish paying for your lot, instead of a "bucket of rusty bolts" and maintenance bills, you'll have a solid investment in one of man-kinds most precious and limited commodities . . . REAL ESTATE!

GOING A STEP FARTHER . . .

Unlike owning "one among thousands" of recreational lots in far away places, your property is located where it will do you the most good: RIGHT HERE NEAR HOME, where you can get the most use out of it . . . even year-round living.

WHERE ELSE . . .

can you invest in real estate, with full utilities, around a 323 acre private lake reserved exclusively for recreational purposes? You enjoy great boating, swimming, fishing and other outdoor activities . . . and on a daily basis if you want to.

AN HOUR OF YOUR TIME . . .

TODAY, to visit Beaver Lake, may well be the most sensible and important step you've taken in years. If you doubt our word for it, consider this: Upon your very first visit you'll see where several of Lincoln's leading citizens have purchased lots. You'll see many fine cottages and homes already under construction.

ARE THE LOTS EXPENSIVE?

Not at all, and we have excellent bank financing available for your convenience. For example: You can purchase a beautiful site for only $4995.00 and this includes the sewer and water connections! You pay only $495 down and $72.41 for seven years. It's financed at 9 percent simple interest for a total cost of $6082.44, payable over 84 months.

Hastings Woman Receives Scout Honor

Grand Island — Mrs. Wava Jorgenson of Hastings is the second woman in the history of the Overland Trails Council of the Boy Scouts of America to receive the Silver Fawn Award for outstanding service to scouting. Mrs. Jorgenson became active in scouting in 1953 as an assistant den mother. Others who received awards during the annual council recognition dinner in Grand Island were William Dixon Sr. of Hastings, Robert Guge and James B. Hellman, both of Kearney, and Richard Niedfeld of Grand Island, all recipients of the Silver Beaver award, the highest citation given to Scouting volunteers.

Dr. Hoffmann Due In Norfolk

Norfolk — Dr. Oswald Hoffmann, "Lutheran Hour" speaker for the past 19 years, will deliver the main address at a rally to be held at the Norfolk City Auditorium Sunday, May 5. Serving the church for more than 35 years, Dr. Hoffmann has done so in the capacity of parish pastor, college professor, film production adviser, public relations executive and speaker on the "Lutheran Hour" radio program. He is a native of Snyder, Neb.

Tackett, Wright Gather Most Votes

Nebraska City — Paul Tackett and William Parker, candidates for finance commissioner, and Walter Wright and Gerald Tritsch, candidates for street commissioner, won spots on the May 14 city general election ballot with first and second place finishes in this week's primary election. Only about 35.5% of the registered Nebraska City voters appeared at the polls. Tackett finished first in the finance commissioner race, capturing 60% of the vote. In the street commissioner five-man race, Wright came in first with 32 7% of the votes.

NU Foundation Distributes Gifts

A University of Nebraska Foundation grant to make the extensive Mari Sandoz Collection of her writings and Indian research more accessible for study by students and faculty was among $178,000 in alumni gifts distributed this past academic year.

In announcing the grants, Harry R. Haynie, foundation president, said the monies are from unrestricted alumni gifts and are in addition to an estimated $2 million in annual benefits which are designated by the donors.

The University of Nebraska-Lincoln Archives was awarded $17,000 by the foundation to arrange and preserve the collection.

Other grants made by the foundation's board of directors from unrestricted alumni gifts and with final recommendation of President D. B. Varner included:

—$58,000 for support of the Woods Faculty Fellowship Program. $28,000 of this total supported the six 1973-74 Woods Fellows, plus travel expenses. The remaining $32,000 has been committed by the foundation toward the 1974-75 support of the Woods Faculty Fellowship Program.

—$40,000 in discretionary funds to be used for educational programs or projects. Varner and Chancellor Zumborg were each allotted $15,000 and Chancellor Roskens, $10,000.

—$17,700 for assistance in funding a Cooperative Community Education Center, under the direction of Dr. Loren Bonneau, history and philosophy of education.

—$10,000 to the University of Nebraska Press to subsidize the publication of "Willa Cather: A Pictorial Memoir," with photographs by Lucia Woods and text by Prof. Bernice Slotte, English.

—$10,000 for support of the artists-in-residence on the Lincoln campuses and for performances throughout the state.

—$10,000 for support of minority cultural programs.

GASOLINE TANKER . . . foreground, burns following fatal explosion after trucks crashed.

Iowan Killed, Nebraskan Hurt In Blast

Glenwood, Iowa (AP) — An explosion involving a gasoline tank truck and a water truck Thursday near Glenwood killed Harry R. Henderson, 51, of Grinnell, and injured a Nebraska trucker.

The accident happened at the site of a Carlson Construction Co. project to construct a ramp on a new U.S. 34 expressway bypass around the west central Mills County community.

Authorities said Henderson, a Carlson employee, was driving a water truck containing a 500-gallon barrel when it collided on the expressway with the Ruan Transport Co. gasoline tanker operated by Russell Romans, 40, of Fort Calhoun, Neb.

Romans was hospitalized in "good" condition at a Council Bluffs hospital for treatment of burns on the face and arms, cuts and scrapes.

Authorities said that fire broke out after the collision, and Henderson tried to extinguish the flames.

But the transport exploded, killing Henderson and injuring Romans.

Former Manufacturer Clyde B. Dempster Dies

Beatrice — Funeral services will be at 11 a.m. Saturday for Clyde B. Dempster, 80, former chairman of the board and president of the Dempster Mill Manufacturing Co.

Mr. Dempster, who died Thursday, was affiliated with the company for 44 years. He retired in 1961.

His father, Charles Dempster, founded the company in 1878 and was a pioneer in farm machinery manufacturing in Nebraska.

Mr. Dempster was on the board of directors of the First National Bank of Beatrice at the time of his death.

He formerly was president of the Nebraska Manufacturers Assn., a member of the Beatrice Board of Education, the First Presbyterian Church board of trustees, the Elks Lodge #619, and the Biting-Norman Post #27 of the American Legion.

For seven years he was a vice president and a member of the board of directors of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce. He also was a former director of the Beatrice Chamber of Commerce.

He was a retired U.S. Army colonel and was a veteran of both World War I and II.

He was graduated from the University of Nebraska in 1917 and was the past president of the Nebraska Alumni Assn. He had received a distinguished service award from both that organization and the U.S. Chamber of Commerce.

Survivors include his wife, Irene; a son, Richard, Topeka, Kan.; a daughter, Mrs. Donald (Phoebe) Hamann, Lincoln; and three grandchildren.

Cooperative Education Grads Said 'Superior' In Comparison

Working graduates of postsecondary cooperative education programs "appear decidedly superior" when compared to employees with other educational backgrounds, according to Pat Clark.

Clark, of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Langley Research Center, Hampton, Va., addressed the 10th International Conference for Cooperative Education in Lincoln Thursday.

Co-op education students alternate their course work with full-time professional employment.

Clark said the results of a 10-week study of 743 employees by the Langley center revealed that former co-op students:

- Advanced more rapidly in their careers than non-co-op graduates.
- Continued their education and won post-graduate degrees more often than other groups.
- Had a smaller turnover rate in their jobs than other types of graduates.
- And won more awards for exceptional performance.

The Langley center conducted the study, Clark said, to substantiate claims that "co-op graduates were more valuable to the center than non-co-op graduates."

Proponents of cooperative education had claimed the co-op graduate is "superior," Clark said; that "he learns more in school because his work experience was supportive of his educational process."

Employees studied at Langley included those in research and work positions on varied technical problems in flight. Clark said 70% of cooperative education students who worked at the center returned for permanent jobs.

According to the study, he said, co-op graduates "were in areas that were engaged in broad missions, or wide-ranging functions." Other types of graduates tended to gravitate toward research and theoretical applications, for example.

About 570 educators and employers from the U.S. and Canada attended the conference, entitled "Employers — The Cornerstone of Cooperative Education." Most of the conferees were members of the Cooperative Education Assoc. and the American Society for Engineering Education, cooperative education division.

The three-day conference ended Thursday.

James T. Godfrey

Education's cooperative education division at the conference.

Godfrey, a 1951 graduate of the University of Nebraska where he played varsity football, is also director of the Middle Atlantic Center for Cooperative Education at Blacksburg.

The center, which trains community college administrators in cooperative education programs, is operated under the auspices of the U.S. Office of Education, at its request.

Godfrey was formerly cooperative education director at Lockheed Space and Missile Corp.

Literary Society Sets Centennial

The Delian-Union Literary Society, an organization of University of Nebraska-Lincoln students and alumni, will hold its centennial celebration Sunday at 2 p.m. in the Nebraska Union Auditorium.

The society is the first NU organization to have 100 years of continuous activity. It promotes musical, dramatic, public speaking and other arts-related activities.

Airline Reports 1st Quarter Net Of $1 Million

Minneapolis, Minn. (AP) — North Central Airlines, Minneapolis-based regional carrier, Thursday reported first quarter earnings of $1 million — the greatest profit for this period in the company's history.

"Although quarter earnings of $25,000 were reported in 1973, heavy losses usually occur in the first three months because traffic is at its lowest level and adverse weather conditions increase operating costs," said Board Chairman Hal N. Carr.

First quarter revenue was placed at $33.5 million, up from $27.7 million a year earlier.

Best Auto Troubleshooters Picked

Hastings (UPI) — Teams from Bellevue and Milford captured individual division championships Thursday in the 1974 Plymouth Troubleshooting Contest.

High school division winner Bellevue and post-high school champion Southeast Nebraska Tech of Milford will travel to Texas Stadium in Dallas in June for the national finals.

The teams were presented with a mechanically deficient car and the team first to solve the problem won.

Kimball High placed second in the high school category and Lincoln High third.

In the post-high school division, host Central Technical College of Hastings placed second and Western Nebraska Tech of Sidney third.

Exon Rejects Debate With Sen. DeCamp

By The Associated Press
Gov. J. James Exon will not accept a challenge from State Sen. John DeCamp to debate LB772, the state aid to education bill which the Legislature approved over Exon's veto.

"The governor is not going to debate Sen. DeCamp on the issue of school aid because the issue has been decided," Bill Hoppner, administrative assistant to Exon, said.

DeCamp challenged Exon to debate through a letter written to several newspapers in the Neligh area. DeCamp is from Neligh.

The argument developed earlier this month when a column written by DeCamp for several newspapers analyzed Exon's veto of the measure. DeCamp's column attributed part of Exon's decision to the fact that "he said the people of Omaha do not like the bill." DeCamp also said the measure would provide property tax relief.

Exon replied with a letter accusing DeCamp of "an outright falsehood," contending his disapproval of the measure was based on a feeling "that this tax increase measure was unfair to Nebraska, period."

Exon said he talked to DeCamp about his objections to the bill, "but made no statements whatsoever about Omaha versus outstate interests."

Exon said the bill would not provide tax relief to average rural or urban residents, and would additionally raise the state sales and income taxes.

Exon accused DeCamp of "misleading his constituents."

That led to the third round, in which DeCamp challenged Exon to debate, and further contended that Exon was trying to hurt

DeCamp's bid for re-election in the 40th Legislative District.

"The governor is not running for the Legislature," Hoppner said, "he is running for re-election as governor."

'Joke' Could Cost $1,000

Omaha (AP) — The joke of a North Platte man about a bomb at Omaha's Eppley Airfield could cost him $1,000.

Named in a civil suit filed in U.S. District Court was Robert M. McCulley. The government charged him with "imparting and conveying false information" about a bomb.

A spokesman for the U.S. attorney's office in Omaha said McCulley, a sales representative for an insurance company, was passing through a checkpoint Feb. 22 to board a plane for North Platte when he handed a book to the guard and said "there is a bomb in it."

The spokesman said the federal statute by which McCulley is being charged also includes a criminal penalty and larger fine.

But, he said, since it was determined the comment "wasn't done with willful and malicious disregard for others — which are grounds for criminal charges — it was decided to file a civil suit which includes a fine up to $1,000."

Anniversary Observance Slated By Wahoo Church

Wahoo — A two-day celebration, Saturday and Sunday, will mark the 100th anniversary of the First Presbyterian Church here.

A pageant is scheduled for 8 p.m. Saturday at the church to open the event.

On Sunday a special worship service and communion will be held at 11 a.m. A noon meal will be served at St. Wenceslaus Catholic Church at 1 p.m.

An Hour of Memories program will be held at 3 p.m. with the Rev. Ted Dillow, president of J.F. Kennedy College, as master of ceremonies.

Participating in the afternoon program will be the current pastor, the Rev. Burton Knudsen, the Rev. Walter G. Millett of Tekamah, the Rev. Donald T. Stewart of Geneseo, Ill., the Rev. William Anderson of Wahoo and the Rev. Donald Proett of Weston.

Mrs. E.J. Nickerson is coming from California for the event. Her husband, the Rev. E.J. Nickerson, served the Wahoo church for 44 years.

An open house will follow the afternoon ceremonies.

The church was organized Sunday Jan. 27, 1874, by the Rev. William Fletcher and the Rev. N.C. Robinson, a state missionary, with only seven persons present due to stormy weather.

Beltzer Quits Unicam Race

Kearney (AP) — Kearney businessman William Beltzer Thursday dropped out of the race for the 36th District legislative seat now held by State Sen. Gerald Stromer.

Stromer is seeking the 3rd District Republican congressional nomination.

In a prepared statement, Beltzer said he only entered the contest when it looked like there might not be enough candidates to insure the voters "a fair choice."

However, Beltzer said "It is now evident that all three candidates are now in a position to make an active bid."

He also asked his supporters to work for the nomination and election of Ron Cope.

The other two candidates for Stromer's seat are George Boucher of Ravenna, and Jack Cary of Kearney.

Although withdrawn from the race, Secretary of State Allen Beermann said Beltzer's name would be on the May 14 primary ballot because the ballots have already been printed.

Choice Is Stark For Meat Eaters

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States may face a choice next year of eating less meat or letting Asians and Africans starve, an international food expert said Thursday.

Lester R. Brown, a researcher with the Overseas Development Council, said Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger was concerned over the growing food problem.

But Brown said he saw no signs of concern from Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz, who returned from a Far East tour and reported Wednesday that he saw a large potential market there for the sale of U.S. agricultural products.

"What he's obviously interested in is commercial exports," Brown said in an interview.

Asked about Brown's views, however, an Agriculture Department economist said the government does not think the food problem is as serious as Brown believes.

The economist said the United States' grain production is expected to increase enough to meet foreign needs without requiring any cutback in the U.S. diet.

Addressing an energy conference sponsored by the World Future Society, Brown said a worldwide shortage of nitrogen fertilizer, caused by a lack of production facilities, will reduce the already marginal food production of Asia next year.

"Beginning about this time next year," he said, "we will see unfolding one of the largest food deficits in history in Asia."

He estimated that Asia could fall short of grain next year by some 20 million tons. Brown said the United States could make enough grain available to feed 160 million Asians by simply reducing its consumption of meat by about 10 per cent to release the grain that otherwise would be used to fatten cattle.

Brown, a former director of the Agriculture Department's International Agricultural Development Service, said India, Indonesia and the Philippines face the most serious problems, but China, Pakistan, Bangladesh and other southeast Asian countries also would be affected.

The fertilizer shortage also might affect food production in African nations south of the Sahara.

Where's The Water?

Rick Farace normally parks his airboats at the level of his pointing finger, but not this year — so far. Farace is the owner of the "Everglades Safari" at Everglades City, Fla. But the drought has hurt his attraction; in fact, local residents say, the water level is two feet below normal.

Dinner With 'Owl, Pussycat' Enjoyable

By GORDON WINTERS
Star Staff Writer

A dinner theater is a pleasant, relaxing experience. In Lincoln, it's also an unusual one, which adds to its enjoyment.

Thursday night was the opening night of the new feature in entertainment in the Capital City at Poor Arnold's, 960 W. Cornhusker Hwy.

Chuck and Myron Roberts of Poor Arnold's have combined resources with the Lincoln Community Playhouse to bring you steak, prime rib, beverages and "The Owl and the Pussycat."

In the case of dinner theater, however, the whole seems to be more than the sum of the parts. The evening is not segmented by trips from one location to another, which eliminates having to watch your clock.

The gratification of a good meal and the warm glow of an after-dinner drink are more noticeable when all you have to do to see live theater is to lean back in your chair.

To this indiscriminate forager, the food was well prepared. A more sensitive palate, however, may have wanted more frills than a substantial steak or prime rib, baked potato and crisp salad.

The California burgundy was unremarkable, but capable of leaving a warm after-dinner glow. The frozen daquiri was sensational, well-mixed and lasted longer than expected.

The play, directed by Playhouse Director John Wilson, is vintage Playhouse in a new setting.

Written by Bill Manhoff, it is about the comical relationship between a self-styled intellectual (the "Owl") and a not-so-bright woman (the "Pussycat").

Patty Wylder brings a convincing zest for living combined with a mixture of naivete and worldliness to the role of Doris W., a breaker of moral codes whose mind is allegedly entrapped.

F. Sherman, the tortured (what else?) intellectual who believes that Doris needs mental stimulation while her charms lure him from pursuits of the mind, is played earnestly by Stephen Enerson.

After dinner productions of "The Owl and the Pussycat" continue Friday and Saturday this weekend, and Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights for the next two weekends. Dinner is served at approximately between 7 and 8 p.m. Curtain time is 8:30 p.m.

Oil Profits Defended By Wenger

Ogallala (UPI) — A candidate for the Republican nomination for Nebraska's Third Congressional District Thursday defended the high profits oil companies have been reaping.

"Part of the reason we had the energy crisis is that the government was interfering with the oil industry and there was no way for them to expand," said Jim Wenger, a Grand Island insurance man. "They've been criticized for not doing more research and expansion, but they didn't have the money to do it."

Wenger said he does not think it is fair to criticize the oil companies "just because profits have ballooned."

He maintained that much of the oil industry's recent profit has come from shrewd trading with other countries, and not from the consumer's pocket.

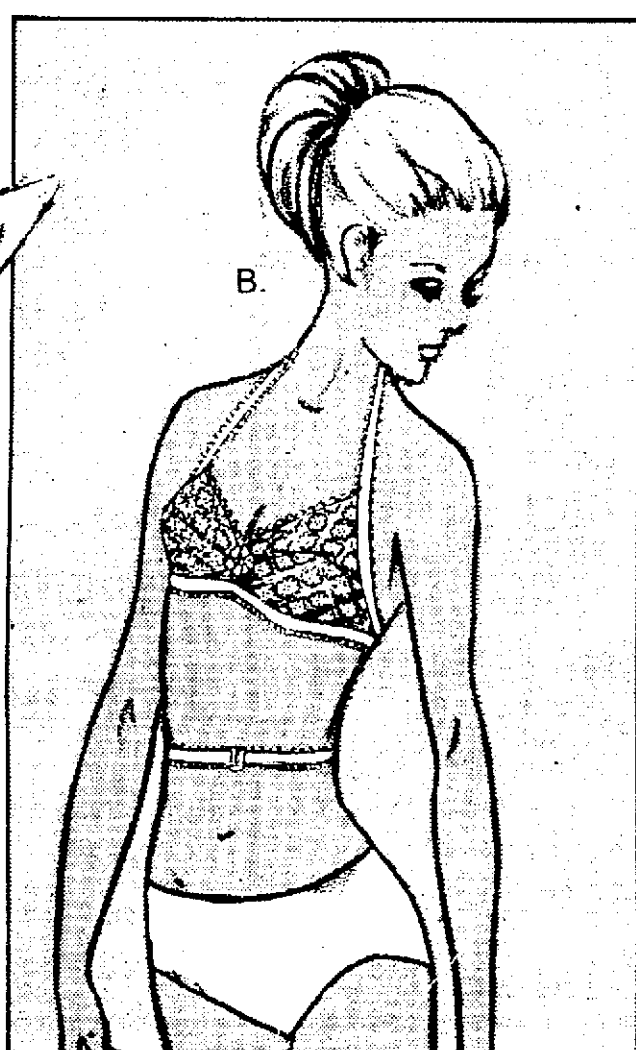

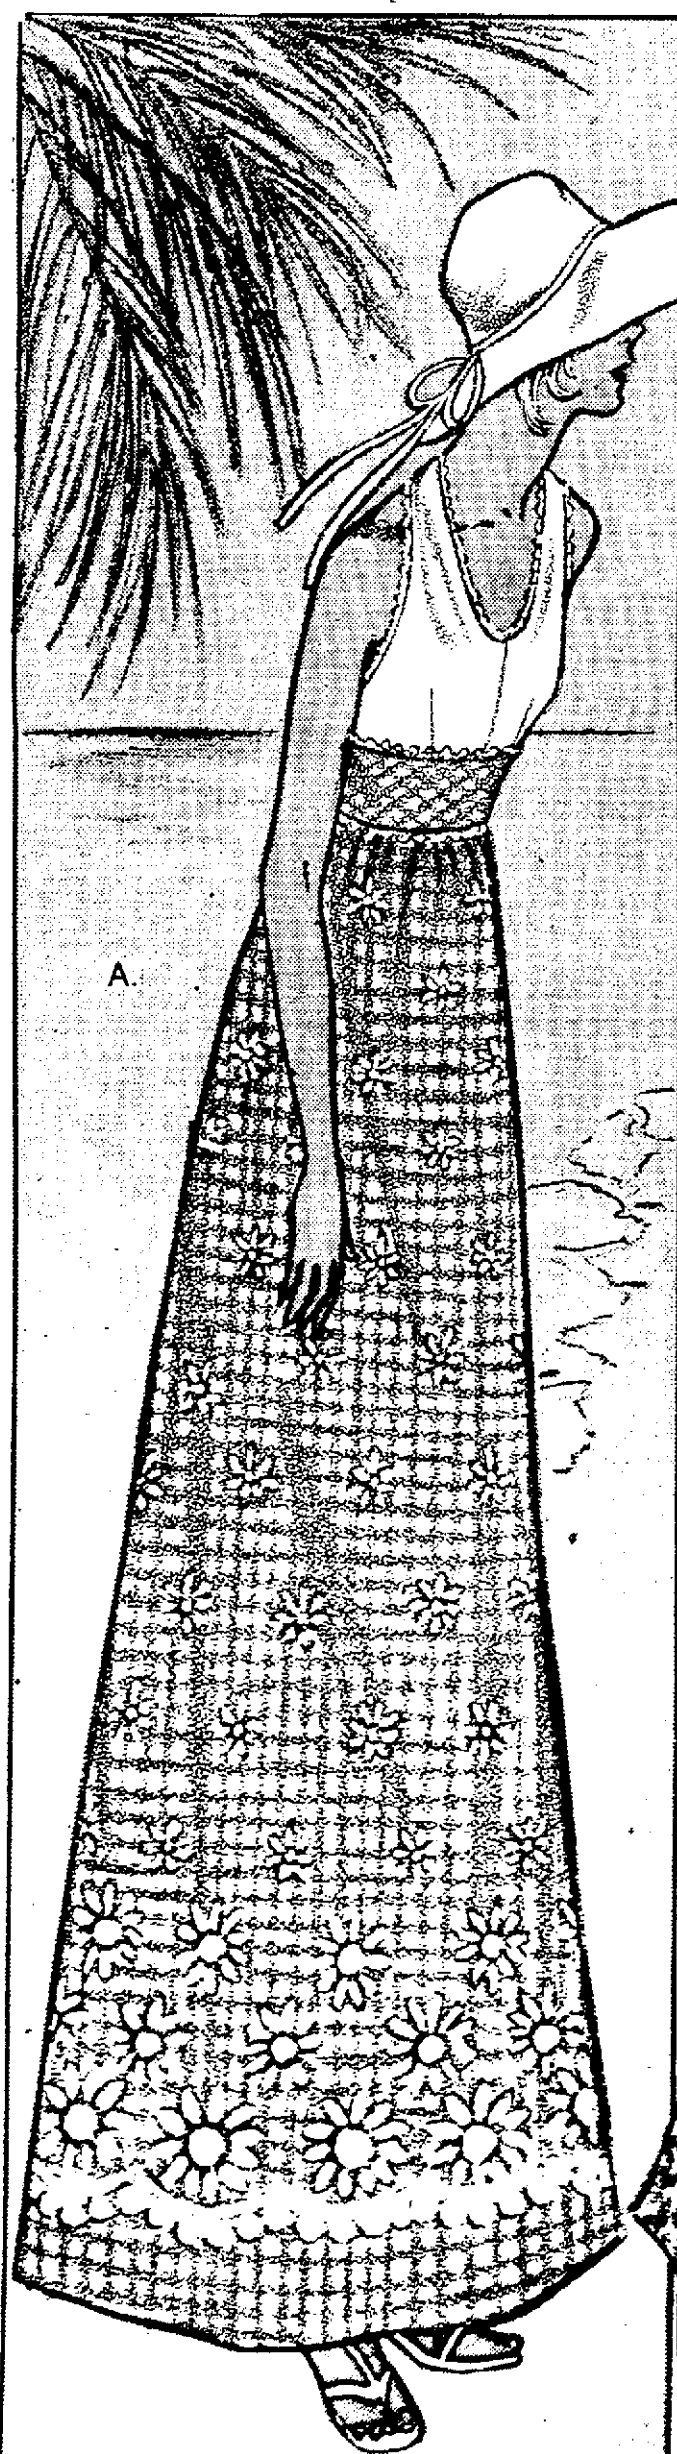

Wenger is one of eight Republicans seeking the seat which will be vacated by Rep. Dave Martin, R-Neb.

Labor union officials Thursday night made 11th-hour requests of the Lincoln General Hospital and Lincoln Hospital Assn.

Board of Trustees to change solicitation policy and to allow a consent election for union representation of Lincoln General employees.
Board Chairman Walter E.

Notte asked members, at their regular monthly meeting, for an affirmative motion to consider either request, but the board sat silent.

Mrs. Mary C. Combs, state director of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees (AFSCME), appeared before the board, saying, "We do have the interest from a substantial number of employees at Lincoln General Hospital who wish us to represent them."

She said the employees have three avenues: Sign requests for such representation (requiring 30%), mutually agree with the board to hold an election, or go to the State Court of Industrial Relations.

"We prefer to ask for voluntary recognition" of AFSCME by the board, Mrs. Combs said, adding that a consent election would take up less time than court action. "We hope that you will consider this."

Regarding the solicitation policy, Mrs. Combs suggested the board adopt one similar to that approved by the Douglas County Hospital in Omaha.

"We want in no way to interfere with the operation of the hospital," she said, asking for a set of rules "to make as easily available as possible information the employees haven't received so far."

Ron J. White, Lincoln General plumber, said hospital employees "sneak around and ask everyone they can about the union on hospital time." A "fair solicitation policy would eliminate" that, he said.

The board members made no comment and no motion in response to the requests. The current hospital solicitation policy, adopted Jan. 1, 1971, prohibits solicitation of patients, visitors or employees in the hospital, on hospital property or on hospital time, except as approved by the administrator.

"We simply will maintain that position," administrator W. Robert Brungard said later in an interview. The current policy is "adequate," he said, noting "the board may take it up later" for possible change.

Brungard said hospital officials have never attempted to intimidate employees to prevent them from going to union meetings or to attempt to organize, outside the hospital.

In other business, the board discussed the financial status of the hospital, pending expiration of price controls on health institutions at midnight April 30.

Board member Herb Hopkins said the board must consider how to absorb increased costs while maintaining the quality of health care delivery.

"I think people would rather have hospital care at $1 or $2 or $3 more a day than no hospital care at all," he said, noting Lincoln General could face serious money problems without a rate increase.

However, he said later in an interview, the publicly administered hospital must file with the city for a rate increase, and if the City Council doesn't object within 30 days, new rates then become effective.

That means a wait for the hospital until at least June 1 for any possible financial relief.

Financial committee chairman Jerry Schiermeyer reported average daily adult and pediatric census was 227 in March, slightly down from January and February totals.

"Projections for the total fiscal year indicate a net operating loss of $132,062 and a net income of $99,023," he said in his report. "These amounts reflect the $80,000 decrease because of (five) previous years' Medicare audit adjustments."

The year-to-date (from Sept. 1, 1973) net operating loss is $124,020, he said. Brungard, in his administrator's report, said construction is complete on the third wing northwest "to accommodate Surgicenter patients which we have already begun to schedule and which we will be receiving in early May as part of our new outpatient surgical service."

Work has begun on remodeling the old hospital basement west wing, for conversion into classrooms, he said.

A revision of hospital organizational structure should be done in May, Brungard said, to "open and maintain better lines of communication throughout the entire hospital" and to support more services directly.

The board approved the provisional appointment of Dr. Dale Michels to the department of general practice.

Dr. Dwight Cherry, chief of medical staff, reported that a family practice residency will be started this year, in a rotation program through the VA Hospital and the three general hospitals.

Penny's Worth More

Akron, Ohio (AP) — The Firestone Bank in Akron is paying $1.10 for 100 pennies in an effort to get more of the coins in circulation, a bank spokesman said Thursday.

Murder Victim's Purse Is Located

A purse belonging to murder victim Patricia Webb was found Thursday evening "in the general vicinity of where the body was found," according to Lancaster County Sheriff Merle Karnopp.

Karnopp said the purse was found by a party of state troopers and sheriff's deputies who were searching the area. He said the purse was located within four or five miles from where the 24-year-old Lincolnite's body was found, but declined to be more specific, explaining that he didn't want the area trampled by people.

County Atty. Paul Douglas said the purse was found in a ditch along a county road.

Karnopp said a mounted posse would be formed to search the area Friday morning. He said men on horseback could cover the area faster and more thoroughly.

'But I Started Out To Be Great'

Today's Write On author is a Nebraska farmwife who used to teach history, and has more recently worked as an assistant in a Lincoln branch library. She has done some writing, which usually has historical background, and her hobby is water color painting.

By LILA GRAVATT
SCRIMSHER

"But — but-I started out-to be great!" That was the lament of a wornout little pioneer woman as she looked back on the years of her life. She had been energetic, ambitious, but now her mind had gone to pieces like the broken threads of a tattered lace nightcap, and this was one of those heart-breaking, lucid moments.

Ah, me! How touching life can be!

She was my mother. Born in Territorial Kansas the fall of the Great Drought (1860), her parents hung on there with stubborn persistence until prairie fires finished their efforts. After that, all they could do was trek with thousands of others to their old homes in "the States."

When this child was eight, came the death of her loved mother; she was taken into the home of her maternal grandfather, and an influence came into her life which never left it. He was a Scotchman, with training in both the ministry and the law; he grew fine Merino sheep, grafted excellent fruit and berries. There she found safe haven.

But love of Kansas was in her father's blood, and after some years and his remarriage, the little family found itself once more following the rutted prairie roads leading west.

(1871) Creek banks were fringed with the creamy white of wild plum bloom, shaggy buffalo were pasturing, pronghorns loped along the horizon, jackrabbits sparked their ears from a safe distance.

Later the prairies would hold sheets of waving blossoms — white and cerise and purple phlox, sensitive roses, spiderwort, the prairie bean whose edible fruits they shelled and ate. There was something they called "Solomon flowers."

A dugout was their first home, with "Pa" rising before daylight to joggle 13 miles in the wagon to haul sand and lumber in the new little town of Beloit rising in the Solomon Valley.

The young girl's years were filled with dreams, snatches of schooling and hard work — there was much to do in caring for the little ones who soon came to join the family. With not enough population for a school, she studied at the kitchen table at night, over books sent by relatives. One text was "Pa's" old geography book; 1872 must have been a hard year; the book bears in her childish handwriting, "Christmas present, 1872."

But life was full of hope here; the future was broad and wide and she wrote exultantly to her Grandfather about this lovely country. He wrote back, "I am happy to see the improvement you have made in learning. Be attentive to your studies and you will make an accomplished student." Again, he said, "Now, my dear daughter, I do sincerely wish to keep up a correspondence with you, as I believe it will be beneficial. As a source of improvement, I would urge you to write as much as you can."

At long last this earnest student was twenty-one and had passed the requirements for teachers' examinations; she was hired by a district at 25 dollars a month.

Here was a teacher who had intentions of educating herself! She wrote in her diary, May 20, 1881: "And how do I like teaching after two weeks? I know I would like it better if I had larger scholars who were farther advanced. But I haven't, so I'll have to make the best of it. If I can get to Beloit I will get me a grammar, and some kind of a writing system. And I want some ink, yes, and something to write on. Before I began school I thought I would write an essay every day and I haven't written one yet — but I must try."

(She was working under great difficulties, with no desks for pupils or herself, no blackboards, the only seats being planks laid on rocks.) "I guess I'll take Nature as the subject. It seems as if there is enough to write on that. I am surrounded by Nature, about all I see is hills, and all I hear is the noise of birds."

"It seems to me this is the quietest place I ever was in. You may go a quarter of a mile from a house and I don't believe you would see a person except in the fields working or hear a sound except the singing of the birds and the noise made by the wind."

"I hardly know whether it is the most quiet on the Sabbath or a week day. To me the Sabbath Day seems different from all other days. There is a calm peacefulness in the very air, the Sun seems to shine brighter and all Nature seems trying to remind us of the Great God."

Kansas '70's turned into '80's. Many are difficult years; sometimes her contract stipulated the salary was to be paid "if there is money enough."

Poor Pa! Once more, he was up against it! He had to charge, what he bought at the store. He had to appeal to his own father back in "York State" for help. He had to accept whatever his daughter had left after paying her board and room bills.

Then came her marriage. She exchanged her position as a Kansas instructor and became a Nebraska farmwife. After that, she was a mother. Who was it who wanted to learn music? To paint pictures? To write? All those hopes and ambitions she transferred to her children.

When the piano was purchased, she took one lesson, then laughed ruefully, "My fingers are too stiff." She found her mother's old list of oil paints — gamboge yellow, rose madder, and the like, then saw to it her daughter had lessons. When early left a widow, what did this shy little country woman do but find a big house in a university town so she could rent rooms to students, and give her own children college training!

Of such were this wornout little pioneer woman's memories, as she sat waiting, waiting . . . sorting the fragments of the past, trying to piece them together!

I know, Grandpa. I tried! I started-started out-to be great! But I didn't make it!

Insects May Eat Your Wardrobe

Carpet beetles and clothing moths may be eating away on your wardrobe.

These insects feed on animal proteins and the fabrics made from them including wool, fur, mohair, leather, silk and feathers.

And as spring arrives it's time to start thinking about storing these woolsens and furs, according to Bob Reselle, extension entomologist at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

Here are his suggestions for avoiding damage.

—Furs, especially valuable ones, should be stored in commercial cold storage plants because fabric-eating insects are not active below a certain temperature.

—Woolsens should be dry cleaned before storage. Dry cleaning will kill all forms of insects present. Then clothes should be stored in a tight container such as plastic bags or cardboard boxes. Moth pellets or crystals (paradichlorobenzine-PDB) should be put with the clothes. Roselle recommends about one pound of PDB to each 100 cubic feet of space.

These woolsens can be aired and brushed in sunlight two or three times during the summer to add extra insurance against insects.

—Washable fabrics should be laundered, then stored just as woolsens are. When washing use the hottest water possible for the material.

DOWNTOWN & GATEWAY,

Starved' Husband Needs Help

DEAR ABBY: My husband works out of town three days a week. He takes $80 expense money with him on each trip. Every weekend he comes home complaining that he couldn't afford to eat and went to bed hungry when he was away. I suggested he take more expense money but he refuses, saying he won't need more, but he goes right on complaining.

When we have an argument he goes for days — sometimes weeks — without speaking. I prepare his meals as usual, but he refuses to eat at home. Instead he goes to a restaurant and then complains to anyone who will listen to him that I won't "feed" him. Right now there is a pot roast dinner, homemade bread, cake and cookies drying out in the kitchen while he is eating in a restaurant!

What is wrong with him? He was married before, and, according to him, his ex-wives didn't feed him either. He is not underweight, and he doesn't have a tapeworm.

Any advice you can give me will be appreciated. He may not be "fed up" — but I am.

HAD IT

DEAR HAD IT: For openers it would appear that your husband has a long history of abnormal behavior. He is obsessed with the notion that he is being "starved" by the women in his life whose duty he feels it is to "feed" him. He needs professional help but unless he admits and seeks it, he's destined to go on his paranoid, obsessive way.

dear

DEAR ABBY: You wrote in reply to Rusty who wanted to know if that picture accompanying your column was really you. "That picture is me!"

Are you right? Shouldn't you have written, "That picture is I?" Or is it I who am wrong?

KENNETH L.

DEAR KENNETH: You are right. The picture is I. But it is you who IS wrong. (And right now I am so confused, I don't know if you are wrong or I is.)

DEAR ABBY: I'll get right to the point. Should I marry for love or money? I'm a 24-year-old woman and have a choice.

LOVE OR MONEY

DEAR L: Whatever turns you

on. Some people are more turned on by money than they are by love. You don't get a lifetime guarantee with either. In one respect, they're alike. They're both wonderful as long as they last.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I are retired. Our assets amount to approximately one-half million dollars — not too big an estate for some folks these days, but it's a lot for us.

I think it is time I enjoyed some of the pleasures that money can buy. For instance, I can't remember the last time we went on a vacation trip.

We have always bought our clothing at rummage sales, our furniture at garage sales and Goodwill. We have never had a new car. Always bought them second hand. We live in a tiny house, and have skimped and saved on everything. We weren't ashamed, either. We used to brag about how long we'd had something and how little we paid for it.

What's my problem? After having lived this way almost all my life, I told my husband I wanted him to loosen up with the money, but the older he gets the harder he pinches the pennies. After 70, wouldn't you think he'd loosen his grip? Please, no city or state. Just your answer.

TIRED OF SKIMPING

DEAR TIRED: It will be hard to teach your old horse new tricks, but it's worth a try. Start out by investigating vacation tours. See America first! Select the most expensive, but settle for the least costly. Insist on a clothing allowance — but ask for twice as much as you really want. Hang in there. Nothing is impossible.

DEAR ABBY Is it considered proper to wear jewelry with uniforms? When I worked at a supermarket we all wore uniforms and were told that the only jewelry we could wear was a wrist watch and our wedding ring — if we had one. No earrings, bracelets or pins. We were also told not to wear extreme hairdos and no gum chewing while on duty!

I know a waitress who breaks all the above rules. When I mentioned this to her, she said rules were made to be broken. Please print your answer. This dame thinks she knows everything.

BLANKETY BLANK

DEAR BLANK: Each place of business employing uniformed personnel sets up its own rules. Unfunctional jewelry is considered inappropriate with uniforms. Same for far out hairdos, and that goes double for gum.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Lincoln Women Elected To Regional Offices

Members of Lincoln's Soroptimist and Venture Clubs were elected officers of the regional governing bodies at the 49th North Central Regional conference of those organizations held last weekend in Fort Madison, Iowa.

Miss Margaret M. Davis was elected Soroptimist regional lieutenant governor and Miss Jan Grabuiski, president of the local Venture Club was named regional Venture secretary during the three-day conference.

The Lincoln Soroptimist Club's finalists for three award programs also received recognition at the regional level.

Miss Debra Kay Higginbotham of North Platte was named regional finalist of the training/retraining awards program and was presented a $1,000 cash award. She is currently studying microbiology at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln and, upon graduation, plans to enroll in medical school.

Mrs. Dixie Metzger of Greenwood was awarded $446 to complete her training at the Southeast Nebraska Technical Community College in its medical assisting program. She was the local organization's finalist in the Identifying Project, providing assistance to women entering or returning to the working world.

Miss Jayne Ann Woytaszek was named runner-up in the regional Youth Citizenship Awards program.

Toilet Shortage To End In 1974

1974 has been labelled the "year of the shortages" by many economic experts. But one shortage should ease off by the end of April — toilets.

A drop in housing starts coupled with an increase in the production of toilet units should bring toilet supply and demand into balance in 1974, according to a national manufacturing company.

According to a current estimate, 8 million toilet units will be produced by the industry in 1974. It is estimated that 7.7 million toilet units were produced in 1973.

A Measuring Hint

Confused about the amount of bread to use when a recipe calls for bread crumbs? A one-ounce slice of enriched white bread yields about 1 cup soft bread crumbs or cubes. It also equals 2/3 cup toasted or dry bread cubes. You'll get 1 3/4 cup fine, dry bread crumbs from an average slice of bread.

Students Honored For Excellence In Art

Urging his audience not to be afraid to try something new or different, Reinhold Marxhausen, professor of art at Concordia College in Seward, spoke during the Sertoma Annual Fine Arts Awards luncheon Thursday afternoon.

The annual luncheon, which was held for the first time last year, honored high school students who have excelled in the arts.

Marxhausen went on to note that "fear of being wrong prevents creativity," and that creativity is often accompanied by "laughter, ridicule and loneliness."

"Today, we need artists who will come up with new options" which will lead to a new life style, he said in commending the honorees for their efforts.

Students cited for their achievements in three areas of art, and their schools include:

Lincoln East High School — Gail Hembree, art; Lee Koch, drama; and Sue Stephenson, music.

Lincoln High School — Jon Roth, art; Judy VanZandt, drama; Karen Esquivel, music.

Lincoln Northeast High School — Randy Swenson, art; Milla Currier, drama; Jeffrey James, music.

Lincoln Southeast High School — Casey Cook, art; Dale Lewis, drama; Joel Sunderman, music.

Pius X High School — Mark Swetland, art; Jan Higgins, drama; Andria Langenberg, music.

Secretaries Week Now

National Secretaries Week is upon us. In fact it is almost finished. But bosses, there is still time to treat your "gal" (or man) Friday to a lunch and/or dinner, or a half day off in celebration.

The U.S. Department of Labor reports there are three million secretaries and/or stenographers of both sexes at work in the land. At the top berth there are certified professional secretaries. Of the 3,901 so titled, 39 are male.

Two things relatively new on the secretarial front: automation and premiums. The secretary's influence as a buyer of office supplies led to the latter.

The makers of paper and ink and other office supplies recognize the secretary's influence on the health of their business. More of them enclose coupons and gift-offer forms in with the supplies.

Some are for pantyhose at reduced rates. Some are for jewelry. And, for the males, hopefully some offers soon will include golfballs.

Automation is bringing about huge changes in the secretarial role. Gene Milner, president of Lanier Business Products in Atlanta, Ga., says "word processing," as he calls it, has created new job descriptions on the secretarial front.

"Marketing executives now need secretaries who are at home with data processing reports and computer vocabulary," he said.

"They need secretaries who can translate technical and mathematical data into readable reports. Many companies are setting up their own data processing and research centers where secretaries are required to function as technical assistants — much as would a legal or medical secretary."

In the pre-automation — before machine word processing — the secretary could figure on an average letter work load in a given period. Now, as information flows into an office from remote points in seconds, a new time concept is required, according to Milner.

The electronic communications generate paperwork.

In the beginning, office work mainly was done by persons who sat on high stools and labored with a quill pen. Then in 1642, a Frenchman named Pascal invented the adding machine. An Austrian made things move faster, when he invented the typewriter. That was in 1864. By 1892 an American invented the addressograph.

What about sex in the office? That's the title of Helen Gurley

Brown's best seller of a few years back. Does the secretary become the office wife? Or — in the case of the male secretary to a female executive — the office husband? It depends on individuals.

Scripture Doesn't Deny

Contrary to a recent statement by a committee of the United States Catholic Bishops, there is no scriptural basis for denying ordination to women, according to Dr. J. Massynberde Ford, associate professor of scripture at the University of Notre Dame. Dr. Ford, writing in the "Journal of Ecumenical Studies," cites instances in the early Christian church in which women had places of authority and an active role in the house churches.

In the Epistle to the Romans, for example, Phoebe is mentioned at the head of a list of 27 people. She is a person of considerable rank and is named as prostates, which Dr. Ford translates as "protector."

Women Ordination

Women's Clubs and Cities Service Company.

Bob Miller, owner of the Early Attic, transformed an abandoned area in the rear of the store into a courtyard.

Runner-up in the state contest was the Bank of Burwell, entered into competition by the Burwell Women's Club.

NETCHE Group Elects McDonald

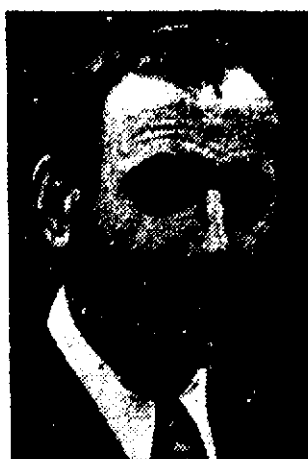

Dr. Brendan McDonald, president of Kearney State College, was elected president of the Nebraska Educational Television Council for Higher Education, Inc. (NETCHE) at its annual meeting in Lincoln Thursday.

Elected vice president was Dr. Earl Mezo, president of Dana College in Blair. Jack McBride, general manager of the Nebraska Educational Television Network, was re-elected as secretary-treasurer.

Elected to the five-member executive committee in addition to Dr. McDonald and Mezo were: Dr. Philip Heckman, president of Doane College in Crete; Dr. Lyle Seymour, president of Wayne State College; and Dr. Ronald Beer, vice chancellor-student services of the University of Nebraska at Omaha.

In other action, the membership approved an institution-supported budget for the 1974-75 fiscal year in the amount of $68,828.

NETCHE is a non-profit corporation of 15 Nebraska colleges and universities which provides instructional television materials for its membership via the facilities of the Nebraska Educational Television Network and the NETCHE videotape library service.

Brendan McDonald

Local Bankers Say Trends Not Clear

The impact in Lincoln of the Federal Reserve Board's discount rate rise and the increase in some commercial banks' prime interest rate is difficult to assess, according to the presidents of three Lincoln banks.

William Smith of First National Bank, Paul Amen of National Bank of Commerce and Roland Tornblom of City National Bank & Trust Co. agreed that since monetary trends are changing so rapidly, predicting what will happen is virtually impossible.

Seven of 12 Federal Reserve district banks Wednesday raised the discount rate — the interest rate member banks must pay for money they borrow from the Federal Reserve System and relend to customers — from 7½ to 8% in an effort to check inflation.

Meanwhile, more commercial banks increased the prime interest rate to a record 10½%.

All three bankers said they thought their banks would not be greatly affected by the discount rate increase. Smith added that not many banks borrow extensively from the federal system.

However, all said their prime interest rates already are 10½%, and Tornblom said he thought it could go higher.

The increases' effect on most customers will be delayed by several weeks. However, new borrowers and current borrowers whose notes mature and must be renewed will be immediately affected, according to Amen.

Nevertheless, a high prime interest rate in time will force a general rise in all lending operations unless it drops. Amen said he thought the board's action was a "clear signal to banks that the Fed is not going to ease its monetary policy."

Smith also said he thought the board was indicating that it would try to use its policy to control inflation.

Garbage Rate Hike Set May 1

A garbage pickup rate increase for Lincoln of 50 cents a month will take effect May 1, according to Harry Niederhaus, president of the United Garbage Assn.

He said UGA members approved a committee recommendation of a 5½ cents per pickup increase. This would mean a total monthly increase of 50 cents.

Ninety per cent of Lincoln's garbage haulers belong to the UGA.

Political Science Group Names Evans President

The chairman of the political science department at Hastings College has been selected to head the Nebraska Political Science Assn.

Dr. Charles Evans was elected association president during the group's annual meeting in Lincoln.

Evans, an association founder, served as interim vice president four years ago.

Evans joined the Hastings College faculty in 1966. He graduated from the college and received his advanced degrees from the University of Oregon and Kansas University.

Former Mayor Of Silver Creek, Hobart, 88, Dies

Silver Creek — Funeral services were held Wednesday for Paul V. Hobart, 88, long-time Silver Creek resident and former mayor, who died Saturday in Boulder, Colo.

Mr. Hobart was a telegrapher and agent for the Union Pacific Railroad for 56 years. He was mayor for 12 years and was on the school board for 30 years.

He was a past patron of the Order of the Eastern Star and was secretary for 12 years of Lodge #266 AF&AM. He was also a member of the Silver Creek Methodist Church.

Mr. Hobart moved to Boulder in 1963 and was a member there of the Elks Lodge and the Senior Citizens Group.

Survivors include two daughters, Mrs. Delores Carlson of Lincoln and Mrs. Bernard Miles of Boulder; two grandchildren; and four great-grandchildren.

Beatrice Home Contracts OK'd

Gov. J. James Exon Thursday approved construction contracts for six resident cottages at the Beatrice State Home.

Few Things Clear In License Loss

By The Associated Press
The records aren't clear about why Michael D. Baker lost his driver's license. In fact, they are so unclear that the Supreme Court has ordered that it be returned to him.

Baker, of Grand Island, pleaded innocent in 1972 to what he thought was a charge of "illegal driving."

A few days after his appearance in Grand Island Police Court, Baker was notified that he had exceeded Nebraska's 12-point system within the preceding two years, and that his license was suspended.

It was then that Baker learned the charge against him apparently had been changed to "illegal passing."

Baker appealed to the Hall County District Court, but his petition to set aside the license suspension was rejected.

In reversing that decision Thursday, and instructing the lower court to reverse the license suspension, the high court noted:

The court docket entry failed to meet required criteria because it was unsigned, there was no judgment entry, it did not show the date of the alleged violation, it did not show who presided over the Grand Island Police Court on Sept. 5, 1972, the day Baker said he appeared.

In addition, it does not show who prosecuted the proceedings, what Baker was charged with, or what city ordinance he allegedly violated.

$10,000 Awarded To Millionaire's Wife

By United Press International
The State Supreme Court said Thursday while a pre-marriage agreement is not binding in a divorce action, an Omaha woman married to a millionaire was entitled to something.

As a result, the high court modified a decision of the Douglas County District Court and awarded Judith Krejci $10,000.

In the original lower court decision, Frank Krejci had to pay nothing in the way of alimony on the basis of an agreement the couple entered into prior to their Mexican marriage in March of 1969.

The agreement, however, applied only in the event that Krejci died. In that case, according to the agreement, she was to receive $10,000 cash plus support from the state.

The marriage was the second for Judith and the third for Frank. They had children from the previous marriages.

Since the agreement made no mention of a property division in the event of a divorce, the Supreme Court said the lower court interpreted that to mean there was to be no division and the woman was to receive nothing.

But the Supreme Court concluded "the trial court was in error in awarding no alimony."

The court added that enough money should have been provided so she could re-establish herself. But the high court also said that the award should have been minimal in contrast to Krejci's actual worth.

In other cases the Supreme Court:

—Upheld the Scotts Bluff County District Court's conviction of Pedro Cano for shooting with intent to kill, wound or maim. Also approved by the court was Cano's prison term of 5-8 years. The incident occurred in June of 1973 at the J.E.F. Tavern at Morrill. The victim was Joe Martinez.

—Affirmed with modifications a Douglas County District Court mechanic's lien foreclosure action against the Prom Town House Motor Inn in Omaha.

—Upheld the Lancaster County District Court's decision that Larry E. Lewis' drivers license should be revoked under the implied consent law.

—Affirmed the Lancaster County District Court's conviction of Charles Ray for forgery.

—Approved the Sarpy County District Court's decision to sentence Ray Brown to 30 months in prison for delivery of a controlled substance. Brown had appealed contending the sentence was excessive.

Preparation Said Key To Getting Industry

By DEAN TERRILL
Southeast Nebraska Bureau
Crete — Representatives of Vision 17 were told here Thursday that adequate preparation is nearly always the forerunner to attracting industry.

Addressing some 60 persons from the 17-county area was a panel focusing on two of southeast Nebraska's foremost concerns, industrial development and housing. The workshop session took the place of a general membership meeting.

Both Seward Mayor Willard Miers and Fred Ahlschwede of Crete, chairman of that city's Industrial Development Corporation, said the prior construction of utilities was a big factor in their communities' industrial successes. They also spoke of the necessity of taking risks.

"First you have to prepare, then to have the guts to put money on the line," said Miers, referring especially to the 400-employee Walker Manufacturing Company which recently located in Seward. "Besides that, sometimes there is luck involved."

Completing his third term as mayor, Miers said he has learned that Aurora might have been chosen for the Walker plant except that its utilities were inadequate.

Noting that Crete has eight industries, Ahlschwede disagreed with Miers' contention that a pre-developed site is important to luring new plants. The needs of firms which become prospects are too varied to be anticipated, he explained.

"When you buy a piece of ground, you tie yourself down and it may not fit at all," he continued.

Ahlschwede said the need for more housing is pointed up by the fact that 59% of Crete's industrial workers live in other towns. A survey has shown that 30 communities are represented.

Regarding housing, Douglas Bereuter of Utica said that town's experience with a 29 lot development proves that "with enough persistence such a project can be pulled off." A 14-acre housing site is being developed by the town's industrial development corporation.

James E. Bradley, industrial representative for Schweser Company Inc., reviewed the use of Industrial Development Act (IDA) bonds. He said 23 of the 114 issues in the state have been in Vision 17 territory.

"This is beautiful financing with interest rates now of 7 to 7 1/4% he asserted. "But people, even many bankers, don't understand the bonds as the tools they are."

Dinner speaker was Dick Koch of Omaha, multi-family housing representative with the Department of Housing and Urban Development. He discussed the tentative provisions of the new direct cash assistance program for leased housing.

Estimating that 3,500 units may eventually be funded in Nebraska, he explained how private investors will receive tenant rent subsidies through local housing authorities. Although any town having a housing authority would be eligible, he questioned if projects smaller than 30 units would be feasible from the standpoint of investors

Student Seeks Damages From Hastings College

Hastings (UPI) — A Central Technical Community College student, acting as his own attorney, has filed suit in Adams County District Court against the college.

Authorities said Richard Brule of Hastings contended the college has failed to improve "glaring problems" in one of its programs.

Brule is asking some $24,000 in lost wages, veterans benefits and other damages.

He maintained that he was unable to understand material presented in an electronics course and later discovered that several sections of a textbook were being left out.

Brule said that the sections were basic to understanding the material being presented. He said college officials failed to objectively evaluate criticisms after reportedly admitting that improvements were needed.

College officials, Brule said, have since defended the course without investigation.

Man Files Suit Against Hospital With High Court

A man who claims he suffered burns resulting from negligence during a stay in the Crete Municipal Hospital has gone to the Nebraska Supreme Court to collect $104,000 in damages.

David P. Barker said in documents filed with the court that he was admitted to Crete Municipal Hospital in 1972 for treatment of inflamed veins in a leg. He said he was treated on two occasions with a heating pad that was not controlled by a thermostat.

The use of the pads, he said, was not supervised and resulted in burns and blisters on his leg. The burns required him to be transferred to Bryan Memorial Hospital in Lincoln.

Barker's claim was denied by the Crete City Council and his case was dismissed by the Saline District Court.

U.S., West Germany Sign Troop Agreement

Bonn (AP) — The United States and West Germany signed a long-delayed agreement Thursday under which Washington will receive $2.22 billion to offset foreign exchange costs of stationing 200,000 U.S. troops in this country.

The agreement, was signed by U.S. Ambassador Martin J. Hillenbrand and Peter Hermes, a senior official in the Bonn Foreign Ministry.

A joint statement said the agreement, covering the period from July 1, 1973 to June 30, 1975, involves a total West German payment of 5.92 billion marks ($2.22 billion).

Exon To Ask Road Aid Not Be Cut

Gov. J. James Exon said Thursday he will appeal shortly to federal Secretary of Transportation Claude Brinegar not to chop $7 million from Nebraska's highway trust funds for failure to enact two highway safety measures.

A spokesman for Exon said after a meeting with federal highway safety officials it appears that will recommend Nebraska lose 10% of its annual highway allotment as of June 30.

The federal government required and the Exon administration supported legislation requiring motorcyclists to wear helmets and certification of ambulance drivers. The Legislature, which had been told failure to enact the measures could mean the loss of $7 million, called the federal government's bluff by voting down the two bills.

A third measure regarding blood alcohol tests for accident victims was enacted by the Legislature as the federal government suggested.

Stan Keesling, regional administrator for the federal highway safety program, said as far as he knows the federal government is not bluffing when it talks about reducing highway funds. He noted an appeal procedure will be allowed and said all the federal government wants is "reasonable progress" toward implementing some 13 highway safety measures.

Exon said Nebraska ranked fifth last year in the nation in progress on highway safety; he said it is "not fair" to penalize Nebraska for failing to enact two measures. He said his administration has strongly supported the federal highway safety effort.

"I don't like the continuing efforts by the federal government to put the gun to Nebraska's head every time we don't do exactly what they want," Exon said.

School Milk Contract Ruled 'Enforceable'

The milk price dispute between the Lincoln Public Schools and Beatrice Foods was settled Thursday when Lancaster District Judge Herbert Ronin handed down a ruling declaring valid the contract between the parties.

Judge Ronin held that the contract for furnishing milk and other dairy products for the period between Aug. 25, 1973, and Aug. 31, 1974, at the prices and under the conditions set forth in the bid was a "valid, subsisting and enforceable contract."

According to the petition filed by the Lincoln School District, Beatrice Foods furnished milk and dairy products according to terms of its bid from Aug. 23 until Nov. 16, 1973.

However, the plaintiffs alleged that on Nov. 19 the school district received a letter from the defendant contending that since federal milk marketing orders had forced up the price of raw dairy products that it had a legitimate right to a price higher than the one it bid.

Judge Ronin held that the defendant's allegation that it is entitled to higher prices because it is compelled to pay for milk from the producer at a substantially increased price does not "constitute any lawful reason for the defendant to rescind, repudiate or fail to perform its said contract with the plaintiff."

The court ordered Beatrice Foods to perform its contract in accordance with its bid through Aug. 31, 1974.

POSTCARD
by
Stan Delaplane

San Francisco — "Spongy April," wrote Will Shakespeare. He lived in England, a land where the weather bureau doesn't say "occasional showers." They say, "occasional bright periods."

After a week of golden spring, rain came back to Snug Harbor. In the glow of sunny days, I bought a whole bunch of potted flowers. Put them in a rosy row on the deck.

We are spongy but a not of color
In one window box, the moppets planted radishes. In another we have a glimmer of green carrot tops
I said "Anyway, we won't starve. We'll out-fox Mother Nature yet."

The green thumb editor of the newspaper writes: "Now is the time to plant lettuce. Get soil well spaded and worked to loamy condition."

Once upon a time I planted lettuce — I was sharpening a tooth for my own garden fresh salads.
This might have upset the balance at the supermarket. But wise Mother Nature keeps everything in balance

As soon as the lettuce grew to eating size, it was invaded by worms. Don't know what kind of worms. I never saw anything like them before. They loved lettuce.

The worms moved in and I went back to the market. Mother Nature loves that supermarket manager

My balance with Nature is really with the banker. I get so much I spend too much. At month's end the banker sends me the result Zero. That is balance

A Banker wrote me the other day saying I was frivolous about banks. A young banker, I think. He said: "I have been a banker for four years."

I imagine I was putting the arm on banks for a loan when he was ringing Halloween doorbells. I am not frivolous about banks. I'm serious.
Banks are where the money is. And "whose bread I eat, his song I sing"

How is it possible that snails get into my flower pot garden? The deck is over water. Far from any other growing things. Yet the snails find me.

This is the month of flowers. The golden poppies and blue lupine are on the green hills.
Snails don't like these wild flowers. Wouldn't touch them with a 10-foot pole. They are bug-free, and I look at these masses of gold and blue and wonder what they did that I didn't

The snails, the bugs, the lettuce worms crawl right past these lovely plants. They come into my potted gardens. Bonanza!

I said to the children "Ten to one something will get those radishes and carrots before we do."

Moppets must learn for themselves. We look forward to the crop. The day of harvest.
(Secretly I'm going to the nursery and invest in some anti-bug spray.)

I can't spray while they're around. Kids in school are now being told about pollution. "Spray is polluting," they told me. "If you let things alone, Nature takes care of it."

Nature took care of me all right. Once I read you could get rid of snails — without polluting — by putting out dishes of stale beer.

I did that. Mother Nature kept me in balance. I had a dog who adored beer. He drank it before the snails could get there.

Bank Blast Not Worth It

Marionetta, Ga. (UPI) — Three burglars who tunneled 127 feet under Marionetta's main street and blasted a hole in the safety deposit room of a bank over the weekend got away with less than $1,000 — not even enough to cover their expenses, police said.
The burglars, described as two young men and another in his late 50s, had rented office space across the street for $1,000. Police estimated it took six to eight weeks to dig the tunnel.

NFL Changes Rules

. . . Kinney: Too Many Rules

By BOB OWENS
Star Sports Editor

The National Football League owners made sweeping rule changes Thursday in an effort to eliminate criticism that the professional game is dull, but former Nebraskan Jeff Kinney, now with the Kansas City Chiefs, doesn't think that will be the result.

"One reason the game is dull is that there already are too many rules," Kinney said Thursday afternoon while helping put on a demonstration of fishing products at the Lincoln Surplus Center. "We should be relying more on individual talent."

The new rules, the most sweeping changes in 40 years, will (1) move the goal posts back to the end line as in college football; (2) return field goals missed from beyond the 20-yard line to the line of scrimmage; (3) all but eliminate the fair catch on punt returns; and (4) do away with the bump-and-run pass defense.

Additionally, a sudden-death overtime, used in the past only in playoff games, will be employed on all regular season games that end in a tie. If the score is still tied after 15 minutes, a tie will be declared.

"The game seems long enough the way it is," Kinney said. His opinion was backed up by Ed Garvey, executive director of the NFL Players Association. "I think it's stupid," he said. "It exposes players to more injuries. After four quarters, they're exhausted and more likely to get hurt."

In addition to moving the goal posts to the end line, the owners voted to prohibit members of the kicking team on both punts and field goals to cross the line of scrimmage until the ball is kicked.

"Just moving the goal post back would have been enough," Kinney contended.

On the bump-and-run rule, which says the defender may hit a receiver only once beyond three yards downfield, Kinney said it would have been much better to have outlawed the zone defense.

Bud Grand, coach of the Minnesota Vikings, confirmed Kinney's contention when he said, "We haven't done that (bump and run) with our zone defense. It's kind of closing the barn door after the horse is gone. Most teams have gone to the zone."

Kinney said that rather than cutting down on field goal tries the new rule simply puts more and more emphasis on the kicking game.

Kicker Jan Stenerud, Kinney's teammate with the Chiefs, thinks the owners have turned the game into a punting contest. "Now, instead of a field goal try a team will punt into the end zone or try for the corner," Stenerud said. He also doesn't think there'll be more scoring. "You'll see a lot more defense next season," he commented.

NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle said the changes have been under consideration for two years but that objections often surfaced when they were considered one by one. "The Competition Committee decided to present them as a total package rather than pick them apart," the commissioner said. "That way, if there weren't seven clubs opposed, we'd get it through."

Kinney, for one, wonders why the NFL Players Association wasn't consulted.

Adoption of the changes required affirmative votes by at least 20 of the 26 NFL teams. "It wasn't close," Rozelle said.

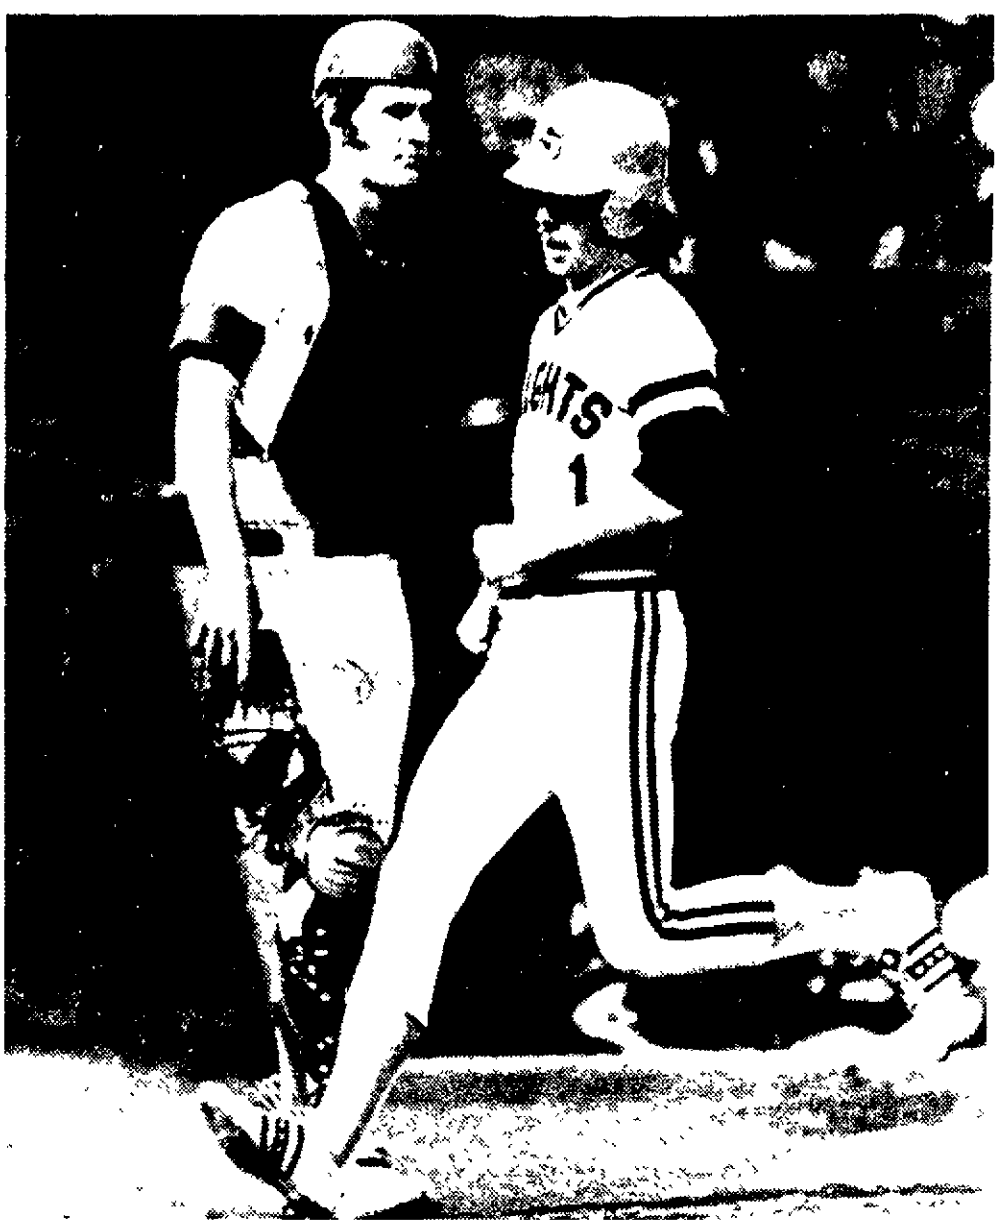

Other comments from around the country, as reported on Associated Press wires:

Coach Chuck Knox, Los Angeles Rams: "I think the changes are all for the good. I would guess it would cut down long-range field goal attempts to some extent. I think they will encourage teams to go for first downs more on fourth-and-one situations."

Coach Don Coryell, St. Louis Cardinals: "The receiver is intent on running a pattern and all of a sudden a defensive back dumps him. It's quite dangerous and unnecessary for that matter to knock the man down."

Kicker Garo Yepremian, Miami Dolphins: "These changes are going to make the game even more conservative than it is now. They wanted to add scoring . . . this is going to make for less scoring."

We'll start finding out next August

Favorites Frighten Expectation Field

By MARK GORDON
Star Sports Writer

Grand Island — It's really easy to determine the reason for only six entries here Friday in Fonner Park's Expectation Stakes.

"The way Roman Zipper and Slipped In Space have been running, they frightened off all the opposition," said racing secretary Dean Williams.

That's an understatement. The two swift 2-year-olds have accounted for five wins in six outings. In fact, the only time Roman Zipper didn't win, was when Slipped In Space defeated him by three lengths in :48 in the initial lifetime start March 1 for each. Since then, he has won three straight races.

Last week's two divisions of the Juvenile Stakes were no contest. Paul Kemling's Roman Zipper won the first division by an impressive seven lengths in :46, 2-5 for 4 furlongs while Mrs. Del Rathman's Slipped In Space scored a three-length decision in :47.

That's why those two speedsters will each carry top-weight of 124 pounds in the fourth running of the $12,100 Expectation Stakes.

The Rathman gelding has only appeared twice in a race — both times were victories.

Roman Zipper has won three of four.

Kemling will be trying for his second straight juvenile championship at Fonner. Last year, his Queen's Turn captured the Fonner Juvenile and Expectation Stakes.

Fred Ecoffey, who piloted Roman Zipper in the Juvenile Stakes will again have the Kemling mount while David Pettinger, who was on board in Slipped In Space's first outing, will ride the Don Von Hemel-trained speedster.

Kemling has also entered Black Heiress, but it's no secret his hopes rest with Roman Zipper.

Black Heiress placed seventh — beaten some nine lengths by Slipped In Space in last week's Juvenile Stakes. Before that, the filly scored a win and a second in her only two Fonner starts.

The Kansas City Racing Stables' Subrisk, who scored a three-length win with a :46 4-5 clocking here, may challenge the two favorites. That time was the fastest clocking posted here this season by a 2-year-old maiden.

Other entrants include M. C. Graber's Political Party (119) and Alvin Jenkins' Likely Magic (112).

Rule Changes

Sudden Death
For all games, but limited to one 15 minute overtime period in exhibition and regular season games. If game still tied after 15 minutes, it ends as a tie.

Kicking Game
1. Move goal posts from goal line to end line.
2. Kickoff from 35 yard line instead of 30 yard line.
3. All field goals returned to line of scrimmage or 20 yard line, whichever is farther from goal line.
4. Members of a team kicking from scrimmage (punt or field goal) cannot cross line of scrimmage until ball is kicked. Penalty five yards.

Passing Game
1. Eliminate roll blocking and cutting of wide receivers. An eligible receiver other than anyone lined up as tight end cannot be blocked below the waist. Penalty five yards and first down.
2. Restrict extent of downfield contact (bump-and-run) defender is permitted to have with eligible receivers on pass plays only. Beyond three yards downfield, defender may hit a receiver only once. Penalty five yards and first down.

Penalty Change
Penalty for offensive holding (illegal use of hands and tripping) reduced from 15 yards to 10 yards, when infraction occurs in area of line of scrimmage and seven yards beyond.

Blocking Change
Wide receivers blocking back toward the ball (backblock block) within three yards of line of scrimmage cannot block below the waist. Penalty 15 yards.

State Thinclads Eye 65th Drake Relays

By STEVE GILLISPIE
Star Sports Writer

Des Moines, Iowa — Nebraska and seven Nebraska state colleges are hoping for good weather here Friday and Saturday for the 65th annual Drake Relays.

The Kansas Relays, held last weekend, was plagued by bad weather including heavy rain the second day that caused cancellation of the high jump.

Eight Huskers are entered in three relays and another four will compete in the discus and javelin.

Bob Unger, Roger Chadwick, Lynn Hall and Dan Speck will try to stop Kansas State from completing a grand slam in the four-mile relay.

That Nebraska foursome set a school record of 16:27.0 in finishing second to the Wildcats at the Kansas Relays.

Mike Fertig, Matt Reckmeyer, Chris Grieb, Keith Whitaker are the four Huskers scheduled to run in the two-mile relay.

Chadwick, Whitaker, Unger and Hall are scheduled for the distance medley relay.

Jerry Hannan and Steve Jepsen in the discus and Wayne Ritchie and Scott Sorchik in the javelin complete Nebraska's entries.

The Nebraska state college entries are topped by Hastings' 880 relay team. Nebraska Wesleyan all-American high jumper Kurt Nielsen, who's listed as doubtful and Concordia's Dan Cloeter.

The Broncos' Dave Ziola, Dennis Murphy, Gary Feind and Rich Koopman were second at the KU Relays in 1:27.3.

Nielsen is bothered with a sore knee and NWU coach Woody Greeno said a decision on whether the former Lincoln Northeast standout will compete won't be made until just before the event starts.

Nielsen didn't jump at the KU Relays because the event was cancelled because of the rain. Last year the Plainsman senior was third here at 7-0.

The only other state college relay team at the Kansas meet to place was UNO's two-mile relay team, which was fourth.

Cloeter set school records in the six-mile, 28:24.0, and three-mile, 13:46.1, by placing fourth and fifth respectively at the Kansas Relays.

Two world record holders — Rick Wohlhuter and Dwight Stones — top the Drake Relays entries.

Wohlhuter holds the world record in the 880 with a 1:44.6 and Stones in the high jump at 7-6 1/2. Both should face some stiff competition.

Some of the other top entries include Larznce Jones, Mike Boit, Pat Matzdorf, Lucian Rosa and Philip Ndo.

Jones, from Northwest Missouri State, is trying to complete a grand slam in the 440. Matzdorf held the world record in the high jump before Stones

Shamberg Devoted To Tennis

By RANDY YORK
Prep Sports Writer

When you attend a Lincoln East girls tennis practice and see Debbie Shamberg away from the group, jumping rope or jogging, she might be considered recalcitrant by some.

After all, is she too good to practice with the rest of her team?

The answer is yes indeed. The 16-year-old Spartan sophomore, the benefactor of having a tennis court in her own back yard, requires a more accelerated training program than others.

Miss Shamberg, a nationally-ranked netter at ages 12 and 14, faces little real competition among fellow prep players.

Consequently, she practices most often at home and competes against such top Lincoln players as Bill North, Roy Colson and her father, Elmer Shamberg.

There truly are "home court" advantages for Debbie. Besides the convenience and quality competition, she has access to a ball machine which serves up forehands, backhands, lobs and volleys.

Debbie received an early indoctrination to tennis. The court has been in her backyard for 15 years.

"I started playing when I was about six years old," she recalls. "I was about as high as the net. My dad cut off the handle on the smallest racquet he could get. He'd throw balls to me and I'd hit 'em back for about 10 minutes."

When she was 12, Debbie was ranked 25th in the national 12 and under group. She ranked 44th when she was 14, winning the Tulsa (Okla.) World Tournament and finishing second in the Missouri Valley Tournament.

"That was my big year. I played better than ever," says Debbie, who also won titles in the Oklahoma Open, Nebraska Open and Kansas City Open.

Debbie's constant devotion — at least two hours a day, seven days a week — has prompted many friends and fellow competitors to say "they hope to see me at Wimbledon," she relates.

But right now, Debbie has her sights set more on "playing for my school and hoping to win the state title for it. I want to represent my team."

East coach Debbie Ensiz doesn't mind her top player functioning in a more high-powered program. "No one can touch her competitively, so it would only hurt her at this stage to practice with us," she reasons.

Senior Anne Schleiger is East's No. 2 singles performer. Senior letterwinners Jan Fix and Kathy Masek return as East's top doubles team. Senior Diane Ness and junior Kathy Hughett are also making impressive bids.

Second-year Northeast coach Carol French returns five letterwinners from last year's team, which tied Lincoln High for the city championship.

Sophomores Cindy Nelson, Terri Wright and Wendy Weideman also have impressed the Rocket coach in the early going.

First-year Southeast coach Bill Kenagy intends to field one of the city's top girls tennis contenders. His hopes are pinned principally on seniors Mary Hall and Meg Shaneyfelt, the top two singles returnees, and returning doubles standouts Lauri Stoehr and Nancy Kroger, both seniors.

Sophomore prospects Carolyn Carveth, Karen O'Shea, Krista Young and Mary Fejfar are "closely-bunched and all have excellent potential," according to Kenagy, who has trimmed a squad of 54 down to 22.

Lincoln High coach Mary Lou Gove faces a rebuilding year after losing her top singles player and No. 1 doubles team.

Junior letterwinners Julie Porter and Kim Graham return. Senior Gisele O'Connor, juniors Laurie Brandt and Annette Wayne and sophomore Tracey Gableman also key the Links' bid to rebuild.

Pius X coach Cathy Harrington relies on sophomore Jacques Streeter and freshman Erin McGovern as Nos. 1 and 2 singles performers. Sophomore Nita Johnson and freshman Mary Schroeder are the Bolts' top doubles team. Juniors Miriam Maixner and Molly Lein have been equally impressive.

Tagge Doesn't Want A Strike

Jerry Tagge, the former Nebraska quarterback who now draws a paycheck from the Green Bay Packers, is one guy who is hoping there isn't a strike by National Football League players.

Even though he will be going into his third pro season as a quarterback, he figures there is still much for him to learn and that the pre-season practice period and exhibition games provide the best opportunity to continue his development.

Tagge, who was in Lincoln last week for an after dinner speech, got a chance to play the last six games on the Packers' schedule last fall as a starter and appeared to be regaining the form that helped him lead Nebraska to the national collegiate championship in 1970 and 1971.

As a collegian, Tagge had a career pass completion percentage of .592, including 88 in a row without an interception in 1969. His yardage on completions totalled 5,071 with a high of 2,178 in his senior season.

Green Bay selected him in the first round in the 1972 draft, but in a very minor reserve role he completed only 10 of 29 passes for 154 yards and an un-Tagge-like average of only .345.

Last season, however, when he earned the starting role past mid-season, the added playing time helped him hit on 56 of 106 passes for 720 yards and a back-to-form average of .528.

Following an impressive showing in the Packers' recent off-season training game, Tagge now is chomping at the bit to get back to the grind.

He is concerned that the NFL Players Association and club owners might not get together in time to allow the practice he figures he needs.

Players are making 57 demands which so far have been resisted by owners. Included are a minimum salary of $25,000 a year each for veterans, $25,000 each for members of the winning Super Bowl team and more freedom to permit players to move to the team of their choice.

Catching Up On Sports

The Star carried a letter Wednesday from Jack Branstiter of Brock on the editorial page asking Nebraska football fans to help the Cornhusker band raise the balance needed for its planned tour of Europe this summer. The need is for $100,000 before May 15. You can make your contribution by mailing a check or cash to University Foundation, European Band Fund, 3835 Holdrege, Lincoln, Neb. 68503.

Nebraska basketball coach Joe Cipriano will appear on a clinic in Cincinnati Friday through Sunday. Among others on the teaching panel will be Norm Sloan of NCAA champion North Carolina State, and Bob Knight of Indiana's Conference Commissioners Association Tournament champions.

When Duffy Daugherty, former Michigan State football coach arrives in Lincoln tonight for a Saturday noon speech to members of Sertoma International, he'll renew an old friendship with Nebraska athletic director Bob Devaney. Devaney was an assistant under Daugherty at MSU before landing the head coaching job at Wyoming.

Oklahoma's Board of Regents have approved a $5 million bond issue, which coupled with the controversial $1 surcharge to the price of each football ticket, would be used for 9,500 additional seats in the Owen Field stadium.

Oklahoma State has recruited Jimmy Jackson of Grand Rapids, Mich., for wrestling. He's regarded the top heavyweight prospect in the country following a 109-3 high school record. The 6-7, 285 pounder won 39 falls in his senior year.

State Leaders to Vie In Trans-Neb. Meet

Three individual state-wide leaders will compete Saturday in the third annual Trans-Nebraska Conference girls track championships at East's Stuart Stadium.

Defending state champion Grand Island is a solid favorite to defend its Trans-Nebraska title. Lincoln's four public high schools, North Platte and Hastings join the Islanders in the 7-team field.

Grand Island's Sheree Wagner is one of three state leaders set to compete. She shares the best 80-yard hurdle clocking (:10.9) with Lincoln Northeast's Peggy Liddick.

Miss Wagner was disqualified in the hurdles last week at Stuart Stadium because of two false starts. She holds the conference record (:11.7) in the event.

Miss Liddick not only shares the state hurdle lead. The Rocket junior also owns the best long jump (18-5) in Nebraska prep girls history and is the defending league champion and record-holder.

Lincoln High discuss ace Judy Johnson is a third state leader who'll compete. Her 132-8 1/2 effort three weeks ago is the best in state girls track history.

Competition starts at 11:15 a.m. with shot put and high jump finals. Discus and long jump competition starts at noon.

Other scheduled events include: 2 p.m. — hurdle preliminaries; 2:15 p.m. — 100 preliminaries; 2:25 p.m. — 880 finals; 2:40 p.m. — 50 preliminaries; 2:50 p.m. — 220 preliminaries; 3:15 p.m. — 80 hurdles finals; 3:25 p.m. — 100 finals; 3:30 p.m. — 440 finals; 3:45 p.m. — 50 finals; 3:50 p.m. — 220 finals; 4 p.m. — 440 relay; 4:10 p.m. — 880 relay.

NWU Falters Twice

Omaha — Creighton blasted Nebraska Wesleyan baseballers twice here Thursday afternoon, 15-1 and 11-2.

The Bluejays exploded in the first game behind grand-slam homers by George Maness and Denis Froelich, while Ted Lipari, who went three for four at the plate, added a two-run homer in the second game.

Wesleyan's record dropped to 19-10 overall, NWU faces Midland in NIAC conference action Saturday at Sherman Field.

Judger Wins Blue Grass

LEXINGTON, Ky. (UPI) — Stretch-running Judger, the 9 to 5 favorite, Thursday enhanced his stature for the Kentucky Derby by winning the $65,500 Blue Grass stakes by four lengths over longshot Big Latch at the Keeneland race course.

Judger returned $5.60, $4.20 and $3.40 while Big Latch paid $28.60 and $18.40. Gold and Myrh paid $7.80 to show.

Ken Opstein's Pondelli finished 12th, beating only Heavy Mayonaise and Joint Agreement. Opstein, from South Sioux City, had said before the Blue Grass that Pondelli would be entered in the Kentucky Derby if he made a respectable showing.

Bushongo was withdrawn as a possible entrant from the 100th running of the Kentucky Derby after sustaining a bruised left leg.

Wood Wins Bass Tourney

Jim Wood took top honors over Roger Severin in the second Lincoln Bass Club tournament of the season over the weekend. Wood caught 11 pounds, 15 ounces of largemouth bass to 11-10 by Severin.

Bob Palik was third at 10-3. Steve Willet fourth at 9-11 and Virg Stewart was fifth at 9-10. Big fish honors went to Rolie TerMaat with a five-pound bass, all caught at Pawnee Lake near Emerald.

Decathlon Win To Wanamaker

Des Moines (UPI) — Former Drake athlete Rick Wanamaker Thursday won the decathlon in the second day of competition of the 65 annual Drake Relays.

Wanamaker was second behind Steve Cady of Drake after the first five events Wednesday, but came on strong Thursday to win with 7,543 points. Cady dropped out of the running after the Discus and finished fifth with 4,701 points.

Finishing second behind Wanamaker was Ray Hupp of the Ohio Track Club with 7,293 points.

"--BUT SARGE IS PREPARED"

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

AXYDLBAAXR
is LONGFELLOW

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.
